Big Soviet Trade Deal In Offing?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger is returning from Moscow with good prospects for signing of a broad U.S.-Soviet trade agreement within a month or less, administration sources say.

At the same time, the sources cautioned against a report from Moscow forecasting the pact would produce $1.9 billion worth of U.S.-Soviet trade by 1977.

Writer Victor Louis, a Soviet citizen who has had an inside track on some major Kremlin stories in the past, gave the multibillion-dollar figure in reporting on Kissinger's three days of talks with Soviet leaders.

Kissinger is due back Friday after brief stops in London and Paris.

The administration sources said Kissinger is bringing President Nixon several options but reached no final agreements.

Stating that it is too early to place a dollar value on prospective U.S. - Soviet trade, the sources said the Moscow report apparently assumed agreement on some major projects in which the Soviets are interested.

Rating high among these is proposed joint U.S.-Soviet development of oil and gas deposits in the Soviet Union. The Soviets are interested in a joint venture in Siberia which would include Japanese and American companies, and also in one in Western Russia, the sources said.

But the United States was said to be taking a cautious, go-slow approach because of financing and other problems involved.

Kissinger was reported to have made substantial progress toward final resolution of the lend-lease dispute which has stood in the way of expanding U.S.-Soviet trade.

Negotiations on settling the post-World War II Soviet I.O.U. for U.S. lend-lease shipments is said to be at a stage where both sides agree Moscow will pay $500 million over the next 30 years.

A lend-lease settlement in turn would open the way toward application of most-favored-nation tariff treatment by the United States towards the Soviet Union.

Progress also was made, the sources said, toward a U.S.-Soviet maritime agreement for ships of each country to carry trade to the other. This would apply particularly to the large Soviet purchases of U.S. grain.

Other matters on Kissinger's Moscow agenda were said to include the proposed European Security Conference, talks on mutual force cuts in Europe, and Vietnam. There was no immediate indication of any dramatic development in these areas.

End-War Bid Faces Defeat In House Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposal to cut off U.S. money for the Indochina war in four months appeared headed for certain defeat today in House action on a $74.6-billion defense bill.

Other amendments to the biggest military money bill since World War II included one to override the House Appropriations Committee and let the Army, Navy and Air Force turn over GIs' KP duty to civilians.

"This may be the last chance of this Congress to speak out and end the war," said Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., author of the end-the-war amendment, in the opening debate Wednesday. "The loss of one more life cannot be justified."

But Addabbo acknowledged off the floor that his amendment, identical to the one being pressed by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., had almost no chance of approval in the House.

It would cut off all money except the amount needed to withdraw U.S. forces from the Indochina war in four months if Hanoi released American prisoners and gave an accounting of missing GIs.

The House on Aug. 10 rejected an amendment setting an Oct. 1 troop-withdrawal deadline. The 228-178 vote showed that the House cannot muster the votes for a policy stand against the war, much less the votes to cut off money for the war.

In his opening statement, Appropriations Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., described the bill as "the largest money bill that has ever been presented to any legislative body in the history of the world."

Defense bills in the House totaled $101 billion at the height of World War II but were split into separate War Department and Navy Department measures.

The $74.6 billion for the fiscal year starting last July 1 is $1.3 billion below President Nixon's request and $1.8 billion above last year's figure.

Agnew Hits 'Poor Lawyers' For Political Motivations

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice President Spiro Agnew says the federal program providing free lawyers for the poor has become a vehicle for politically motivated attorneys who want to impose on the public their own ideas of how society should be structured.

Writing in the September issue of the American Bar Association Journal, Agnew says the Legal Services Program which provides lawyers for noncriminal complaints should pay more attention to the needs of individual clients and less to "practically every cause celebre that comes along."

"What we have," Agnew writes, "is the Federal Government funding a program designed to effectuate major political changes. What we may be on the way to creating is a federally funded system manned by ideological vigilantes who owe their allegiance not to a client, not to the citizens of a particular state or locality and not to the elected representatives of the people, but only to a concept of social reform."

Agnew says regional, state and local legal assistance offices should be kept under tighter control by the central office in Washington. He also suggests that local bar associations monitor the performance of legal assistance lawyers in an effort to hold them "to a very high standard of conduct."

Agnew cites several instances of programs he said have become heavily involved in social issues — draft counseling, prison inmates' rights, antiwar protests and free-speech movements.

"The list of causes is endless," he says. "But the important thing to note is that they have little or nothing to do with poverty and the problems peculiar to the poor. And equally important, while most programs now turn away individual poor clients with routine legal problems, many nevertheless find time to engage in practically every cause celebre that comes along."

Lucasville Prison Open For Business

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The new Southern Ohio Correctional Facility at Lucasville is officially open and inmates now are occupying the prison. Dr. Bennett J. Cooper, Director of the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction, said today.

The first 30 men to be moved to the Lucasville prison were on honor status from the Chillicothe Correctional Institute, he said. There will be staggered transfers of inmates from Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus to the new Lucasville facility until the entire penitentiary population has been moved, he said.

The $32 million maximum security prison had been under construction at the Scioto County site since December, 1969.

Cooper estimated earlier this year that all of the estimated 1,200 inmates to be moved to Lucasville from Ohio Penitentiary would be there by early fall.

Cooper's announcement today gave no estimate on when the prisoner transfer would be completed.

Ohio Penitentiary will be maintained as a reception and guidance center for the Rehabilitation and Correction Department.

Tapioca Pudding Ship Unloaded

CARDIFF, Wales (AP) — For a while today, the biggest tapioca pudding in the world threatened to split the seams of a Swiss freighter, but a dock official said firemen and the ship's crew finally got things under control.

The official said dock workers were unloading the 12,165-ton Cassarate, which a fire chief had earlier called a "huge tapioca time bomb."

War Foes To Bring Fliers Home

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Four militant opponents of the Vietnam war were en route to Hanoi today to bring home three American fliers the Communists have promised to release. The wife of one POW and the mother of another accompanied them.

The group left New York Wednesday night. They were to stop briefly in the Danish capital and to arrive Friday in Hanoi for a two-week stay, according to the head of the delegation, Cora Weiss, co-chairman of the Committee of Liaison with Families of Servicemen Detained in Vietnam.

The POWs to be released are Navy Lt. Markham Gartley, 28; Navy Lt. Norris A. Charles, 27, and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, 34.

Accompanying Mrs. Weiss were Gartley's mother, who is from Dunedin, Fla., and Charles's wife, from San Diego, Calif. Elias's father, who lives in Valdosta, Ga., said he could not make the trip.

The remaining members of the delegation are David Delinger, the other co-chairman of Mrs. Weiss's committee; Richard Falk, professor of international law and practice at Princeton University, and Yale University's chaplain, the Rev. William Sloan Coffin Jr.

Coffin said he had "no precise idea" why the North Vietnamese were going to release some Americans for the first time in three years.

Pope Denies Women Church Role

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI barred women today from even the smallest formal role in the ministry of the Roman Catholic Church. He also restated celibacy rules for deacons and priests.

In a motu proprio—a decree by his own hand—the Pope extended the lower church ministries of Bible reading and altar service to lay Catholics provided they are men.

"In accordance with the venerable tradition of the Church, installation in the ministries of lector and acolyte is reserved to men," the 74-year-old pontiff declared.

The ruling does not actually prohibit women from Bible reading or from performing some altar services, but it bars them from formal investiture by a bishop to do so.

The ban was a setback to many in the Church, from cardinals to nuns, who had called for a role for women among Church "ministers" in keeping with the modern principle of equality of sexes.

The Pope said he made the decision after "having taken into account the views" of bishops around the world. However, he has not implemented a recommendation by the 1971 Synod of Bishops which urged the Vatican to set up a special commission to seek ways to enhance the role of women in the

Welfare Rolls Increase, Cost Drops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty thousand persons were added to the nation's welfare rolls in May, but costs declined by $22 million, the government announced today.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said the number of recipients in federal welfare programs rose by 40,000 to a total of 14.1 million while nonfederal general assistance rolls declined by about 20,000 to 908,000.

Expenditures totaled $1.6 billion, representing a $1.4-million drop in cash payments and $20.6 million less for Medicaid.

Seventeen states and the Virgin Islands reported fewer persons receiving Aid for Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) while 36 state jurisdictions reported increases, HEW said in the monthly report.

The net increase of AFDC recipients was 20,000 or .2 per cent for the month, a total of 10.9 million.

Police Continue Hunt For Phony Brink's Guards

MENTOR, Ohio (AP)—Authorities said Wednesday that the search for two men who took $316,500 from the Lake County National Bank branch in Mentor by posing as Brink's guards has been narrowed to several suspects.

The FBI put out a nationwide alert for a vehicle described as an armored truck which may have been used in Tuesday's theft, but Thomas F. Horgan, regional manager for Brink's, said he thought it was "far-fetched that anyone had an armored truck."

Horgan said there were no Brink's trucks missing anywhere in the nation and old trucks are not sold and are cut up for scrap.

The two thieves entered the bank in gray uniforms and wearing handbags, showed identification and signed a receipt for the money. They fled 20 minutes before the regular Brink's guards appeared.

CS Executive Secretary Resigns Post

At the regular monthly meeting Wednesday the Pickaway County Children Services Board "regretfully accepted" the resignation of Bruce McCillis, executive secretary.

McCillis assumed the position of executive secretary in July of 1971. Since that time the Board has continued intensive efforts to upgrade and expand their services to the children, families and citizens of Pickaway County. His resignation is effective Oct. 15.

McCillis, who holds a master's degree in social work, will be leaving to accept a position as program director of a research project in northern Ohio aimed at determining the existing needs for social services and implementing and funding of programs designed as a result of the project. Subsequent to this project McCillis will be resuming work in the area of Mental Health.

William Boyd Dies; Filmdom's Hopalong Cassidy

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Silver-haired actor William Boyd, who rose to stardom as the cowboy Hopalong Cassidy, is dead at 77.

A spokesman at a South Laguna Beach, Calif., hospital said Boyd died Tuesday night from complications of Parkinson's disease and congestive heart failure.

Boyd's portrayal of Hopalong—a "good guy" who wore a black hat but was a paragon of virtue—was the longest-running characterization in Hollywood history.

Boyd rode the range on his horse Topper for a quarter of a century in movies and on television.

"Hoppy," a character half conceived by writers, half by Boyd, didn't smoke, drink, swear or kiss girls. He captured villains rather than shot them.

The responsibility of being a children's hero transformed Boyd, one-time playboy, into a philanthropist devoted to strengthening the fiber of American youth.

"When you've got kids looking up to you," he would say, "when you've got parents saying what a wonderful guy Hoppy is, what the hell do you do? You have to be a wonderful guy!"

Born in Hendrysburg, Ohio, to a poor farm laborer, Boyd

quit school after the sixth grade and went to work.

He came to Hollywood as a young man and appeared in films such as "The Volga Boatman," "King of Kings" and "Two Arabian Nights." Boyd became a romantic idol of the '20s, in a class with such stars as Wallace Reid and Rod LaRocque.

Dazzled by success, he spent freely, gambled heavily and lived lavishly. He bought a Beverly Hills mansion, a Malibu beach house and a ranch. He married and divorced three beautiful actresses, Ruth Miller, Elinor Fair and Dorothy Sebastian. Miss Miller bore him a son who lived only nine months.

Then, in 1932, the good life screeched to a halt. A Broadway actor named William Boyd, now dead, was arrested at a drinking and gambling party. In the morning papers the Hollywood Boyd's picture was published in error. An apology was printed later, but Boyd's career plunged downhill.

He was a has-been in 1935 when a Paramount producer offered to star him in a series of cowboy films. Boyd asked for a few changes in his role, then made the first "Hopalong Cassidy" movie.

Movie executives said that

Stans Denies Illegal Cash OK'd By Him

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's chief fund-raiser, Maurice H. Stans, has struck back on two fronts at Democrats who he says are trying to make political capital out of Republican campaign-money controversies and the break-in at Democratic headquarters.

Stans accused the House Banking and Currency Committee of "partisan misbehavior and discourtesy" after its staff report questioned his denials of involvement in a transaction linked to the Democratic-headquarters-bugging affair.

And Wednesday Stans joined in filing a $2.5-million civil suit against Lawrence F. O'Brien, former Democratic chairman and now chairman of Sen. George McGovern's presidential campaign. The suit charged O'Brien with abusing the federal-court process in connection with O'Brien's $1-million suit stemming from the break-in and alleged bugging of Democratic national headquarters.

A spokesman for O'Brien said the GOP suit was frivolous and "an attempt to intimidate us from pursuing our own suit against the Republicans. We will not be intimidated by such desperate tactics."

The Democratic National Committee, meanwhile, said a small black gadget described as a listening device was found in a telephone Wednesday at party headquarters.

Committee officials said the device was removed by the FBI after a secretary reported that

Girl Catches Hand In Safe; Finally Freed

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — A teen-age girl got her hand caught in a safe, setting off a 5½-hour ordeal that ended only after firemen removed the safe from the wall with jackhammers.

Eileen Fagan, 17, said she her hand to pull free. She was putting money into the bottom part of a two-sectioned wall safe Wednesday at a drive-in restaurant where she works. A ring on her right hand got caught and wouldn't allow her hand to pull free. She struggled to remove her hand, but it only swelled and wedged even tighter.

Firemen were summoned and tried for three hours to free the embarrassed blonde's hand. A jackhammer was used finally to rip the safe from the wall.

Then Eileen and the 18-inch-long safe were taken to a hospital where doctors administered an anesthetic and slipped her hand from the safe uninjured.

"Hoppy," a character half conceived by writers, half by Boyd, didn't smoke, drink, swear or kiss girls. He captured villains rather than shot them.

The responsibility of being a children's hero transformed Boyd, one-time playboy, into a philanthropist devoted to strengthening the fiber of American youth.

"When you've got kids looking up to you," he would say, "when you've got parents saying what a wonderful guy Hoppy is, what the hell do you do? You have to be a wonderful guy!"

Born in Hendrysburg, Ohio, to a poor farm laborer, Boyd

quit school after the sixth grade and went to work.

He came to Hollywood as a young man and appeared in films such as "The Volga Boatman," "King of Kings" and "Two Arabian Nights." Boyd became a romantic idol of the '20s, in a class with such stars as Wallace Reid and Rod LaRocque.

Dazzled by success, he spent freely, gambled heavily and lived lavishly. He bought a Beverly Hills mansion, a Malibu beach house and a ranch. He married and divorced three beautiful actresses, Ruth Miller, Elinor Fair and Dorothy Sebastian. Miss Miller bore him a son who lived only nine months.

Then, in 1932, the good life screamed to a halt. A Broadway actor named William Boyd, now dead, was arrested at a drinking and gambling party. In the morning papers the Hollywood Boyd's picture was published in error. An apology was printed later, but Boyd's career plunged downhill.

He was a has-been in 1935 when a Paramount producer offered to star him in a series of cowboy films. Boyd asked for a few changes in his role, then made the first "Hopalong Cassidy" movie.

Movie executives said that

'My Fair Lady' Cast Is Named

Casting has been completed for the Nov. 7-11 production of "My Fair Lady" to be staged by the Roundtown Players, local community theater group.

Heading the cast of 36 actors, singers and dancers in the lead roles of Eliza Doolittle and Professor Henry Higgins are Helen Blum and Dick Davis.

In the roles of Alfie Doolittle and Colonel Hugh Pickering are Dick Willoughby and Gladden Troutman. Diane Berger has been cast as Mrs. Pearce, Higgins' housekeeper, and Scott Wilson is Freddy Eynsford-Hill, the boyfriend. Evelyn Perdon will play the part of Mrs. Higgins and Dee Currie will be seen as Mrs. Eynsford Hill.

Frank Vavrock and Steve Stevenson are cast as Harry and Jamie, sidekicks to Eliza's father, Alfie, for the show-stopping tunes "With A Little Bit Of Luck" and "Get Me To The Church On Time."

PATTI Van Buskirk choreographer, will be a featured dancer in several production numbers.

Supporting members of the cast and chorus are as follows, in alphabetical order: Barb Alkire, Dave Amey, Bob Bensonhaver, Dot Eck, Phil Funk, Mary Knapp, James Leckrone, Bill McClelland, Marilyn Orr, Barb O'Shaughnessy, Tom O'Shaughnessy, Judy Palm, Elissa Parrott, Jim Rae, Joy Rae, Bill Robertson, Katie Schneider, Sue Schneider, Nancy Schollenberger, Marty Sharrett, B. J. Sowers and Rick Sabine.

Rehearsals are scheduled to begin Sunday.

Jim Dippel, director, commented today in announcing the cast that he was "tremendously pleased for the opportunity of working with the Roundtown Players again on a production that certainly is one of the great musicals of all time.

"There are many challenges, but it's gratifying to see the excellent accomplishments already made in creation of a difficult multiple-scene set and in technical and costuming areas, to name a few."

He continued to say that the cast looks like "another winner too. Many of those people who worked so hard and well to make South Pacific a success are back, along with several promising newcomers."

Dippel added, "It is also pleasant to be back among Circleville people who last year were so wonderful in their support and appreciation of 'South Pacific.'"

Stans Denies

(Continued from Page 1) the phone line was not functioning properly. Newsmen were not allowed to see the device. The FBI would not comment on the incident.

Stans' attack on the House committee report and the GOP suit further escalated the political battle which has developed since five men, equipped with eavesdropping and photographic equipment, were arrested in the Democratic office June 17.

Stans, former Commerce secretary, has been drawn into the controversy because $114,000 in Republican campaign funds was held for a time in the Miami bank account of one of the men charged in the break-in. High-level officials say neither the White House nor the GOP was involved in the burglary.

A confidential Banking Committee staff report, issued to committee members Tuesday night, said Stans had approved the transfer of at least $89,000 of the money from Mexico to Nixon's committee in Washington hours before a new federal law would have required disclosure of the contributors.

Stans, in a statement Wednesday, said reports "that I knew of an approved complex plan to transfer funds from contributors to Mexican banks and then to the Finance Committee to Re-Elect the President are not true."

Deny Hearing On Auto Costs A 'Charade'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission has denied accusations leveled by the United Auto Workers that public hearings on automobile price increases are a "political charade" designed to delay price boosts until after election day.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock, in a letter read to the commission Wednesday, said the hearings are a fraud called "to promote the re-election of President Nixon."

"I categorically deny that those (statements) are true," commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson said in response to Woodcock's accusations.

Former Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton added, "There has not been any action by the Price Commission that has been decided in political sequence."

Woodcock and UAW official Nat Weinberg maintained that the hearings were meaningless since price increase requests by the two largest auto makers, General Motors and Ford, have been denied. For competitive reasons, they said, Chrysler Corp. and American Motors could not raise prices even if the commission approved them.

Commission member Robert Lanzillotti said the UAW was engaging in political rhetoric and "that raises the question whether you are running political interference for someone else."

The UAW said the public is in the dark about whether the increases are justified and added that the commission could demand more data from the companies than it is getting.

Pope Denies

The decree radically revised the "minor and major orders," the traditional stages by which candidates were prepared for priesthood.

Saying he was removing "what is obsolete," the pontiff dropped the orders of porter, exorcist and subdeacon.

He retained two, those of lector and acolyte, and called them "ministries" rather than "minor orders." This was to indicate they also were being extended to laymen who did not intend to become members of the clergy as deacons or priests in the future. He also abolished the tonsure—the custom of shaving the crown of the head—for lectors and acolytes.

Lay lectors were given the functions of reading the Bible—except for the Gospel—and direct singing during mass. Acolytes are to assist priests at the altar and even give Communion to help the priest with large crowds or when priests and deacons are not available.

In recent years many bishops have allowed nuns to give Communion when there were no priests available.

The celibacy rules for deacons and priests were restated in a separate motu proprio. In it the Pope said the ceremony of ordination was being revised to include a vow of chastity for unmarried candidates.

The two decrees will come into effect Jan. 1.

An attempted theft Wednesday night at the Bonded Service Station, Lancaster Pike, was thwarted by the alertness of the night attendant.

He went after the thief who dropped the battery and made his escape in the darkness.

Change In Capital - Gains Tax Urged By Rep. Mills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills says he hopes to steer through the House next year a major tax-reform bill, probably including substantial revision of the capital-gains tax.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, also hopes for House passage next year of a national health insurance bill and one on foreign trade.

But he said that if the Senate again fails to agree on a welfare-reform measure "I cannot ask the House to go up that mountain a third time."

In the last Congress the House passed a reform bill along lines proposed by President Nixon, only to see it die in the Senate. The House last year passed a similar bill which is still bogged down in the Senate Finance Committee as adjournment of the present Congress approaches.

Mills discussed the outlook in an interview as his committee began a series of executive sessions to trim its agenda for the remainder of the present Congress, which hopes to adjourn by about Oct. 14.

The only remaining major piece of legislation assured of committee action is an increase in the national-debt ceiling, on which hearings begin Monday. The committee also may act on tax credits for parents of children in nonpublic schools, but chances of final passage of such legislation at this session are slender.

Mills indicated he cannot support Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern's proposal to phase out the preferential tax treatment of capital gains in three years. Generally speaking, such gains are taxed at half the rate of ordinary income.

With a caution that "I am only thinking out loud," Mills said he is interested in proposals to establish a graduated scale for taxing the increased value of assets, so that those held longest would carry the lowest rate. The minimum period for which an asset must be held before the profit on its sale is taxed as a capital gain should be longer than the present six months, he said.

Tax reformers also should consider definition and classification of capital gains, Mills said.

Mills indicated agreement with Nixon that federal action is needed to relieve property taxation and enhance equality of educational opportunity between rich and poor states, as well as districts within states.

But he repeated his opposition to the value-added tax, a form of national sales tax that is under study by the administration. An increase in federal income taxes would be a better way, he said, with an offsetting reduction of property taxes. Mills indicated he plans to tackle tax reforms directly, without pressing for enactment of a bill he introduced earlier to force review of tax preferences by bringing most of them up for repeal.

Women's Lib Now Wants Members To Hate Men

NEW YORK (AP) — And now there's a new topic of debate about women's liberation that's bound to make at least half of the population a bit uneasy — man-hating.

While more than 200 women cheered, several speakers gave their personal views Wednesday night on why hating men was an essential subject related to women's equality. The conference, closed to men, was organized by the Feminists of New York, who had a similar speakout on rape several months ago.

"We have a moral cause for hating men for they have taken away all our power," said Barbara Mirhoff of the Feminists, by way of introduction. "Men have imposed their minds and bodies on women and our hatred is a natural response, a rational and political hatred developing from centuries of male rule."

The women in the audience, mostly young, dressed in jeans and T-shirts, knitting or taking notes, had paid up to $2 to hear speakers like Robin Morgan, editor of an anthology of feminist writings, "Sisterhood Is Powerful."

She read some of her favorite man-hating poems from her new book, "The Monster."

"I want a woman's revolution like a lover. I lust for it. How I wish that my tears ... were bullets ... to kill what terrorizes in men."

Pat Mainardi, married, the author of "The Politics of Housework," and the editor of the Feminist Art Journal, said, "Man-hating marks a turning point in the movement. We have been defensive long enough."

"People often ask me how married women can be a man-hater," she added. "And I wonder, how can we be anything else?" The women cheered.

"We sleep with the enemy to find out his secrets and we pass them onto our allies," she said, but the audience hissed.

"The only way to win liberation is to make men miserable so they will have no peace until women are free. Married women invented man-hating," she declared.

Shriver Links Self To Nixon

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A slip of the tongue momentarily put Sargent Shriver in the Republican camp here.

At a reception Wednesday for South Texas political leaders, he said California labor union officials had told him not to worry about their votes.

"They said, 'We will carry California for Nixon and Shriver,'" he told the crowd, which immediately whooped and laughed.

Shriver quickly corrected his mistake.

Women's Lib Now Wants Members To Hate Men

NEW YORK (AP) — And now there's a new topic of debate about women's liberation that's bound to make at least half of the population a bit uneasy — man-hating.

While more than 200 women cheered, several speakers gave their personal views Wednesday night on why hating men was an essential subject related to women's equality. The conference, closed to men, was organized by the Feminists of New York, who had a similar speakout on rape several months ago.

"We have a moral cause for hating men for they have taken away all our power," said Barbara Mirroff of the Feminists, by way of introduction. "Men have imposed their minds and bodies on women and our hatred is a natural response, a rational and political hatred developing from centuries of male rule."

The women in the audience, mostly young, dressed in jeans and T-shirts, knitting or taking notes, had paid up to $2 to hear speakers like Robin Morgan, editor of an anthology of feminist writings, "Sisterhood Is Powerful."

She read some of her favorite man-hating poems from her new book, "The Monster."

"I want a woman's revolution like a lover. I lust for it. How I wish that my tears ... were bullets ... to kill what terrorizes in men."

Pat Mainardi, married, the author of "The Politics of Housework," and the editor of the Feminist Art Journal, said, "Man-hating marks a turning point in the movement. We have been defensive long enough."

"People often ask me how married women can be a man-hater," she added. "And I wonder, how can we be anything else?" The women cheered.

"We sleep with the enemy to find out his secrets and we pass them onto our allies," she said, but the audience hissed.

"The only way to win liberation is to make men miserable so they will have no peace until women are free. Married women invented man-hating," she declared.

Senate Eyes SALT Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate broke a month-long stalemate on the U.S.-Soviet arms limitation agreement today by voting to curb debate.

A leadership-sponsored motion to invoke cloture was adopted 76-15, 15 votes more than the two-thirds majority required.

With each senator limited to one hour for debate on the resolution approving the agreement, and all of the 16 pending amendments to it, Senate leaders foresaw a chance for final action by tonight.

The cloture petition, requiring a two-thirds majority, was filed jointly by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

The product of three years of (SALT), the five-year agreement on offensive arms and a companion treaty limiting ABM defensive weapons were signed by President Nixon in Moscow on May 26.

Shriver Links Self To Nixon

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A slip of the tongue momentarily put Sargent Shriver in the Republican camp here.

At a reception Wednesday for South Texas political leaders, he said California labor union officials had told him not to worry about their votes.

"They said, 'We will carry California for Nixon and Shriver,'" he told the crowd, which immediately whooped and laughed.

Shriver quickly corrected his mistake.

Tuberculosis Rapidly Wiped Out Across Ohio

By KENNETH L. DAVIS
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Six cents a day keeps TB away. This bargain in healing is called isoniazid, or INH—one reason Ohio has been closing down traditional tuberculosis hospitals as fast as communities can be weaned away from them.

Gone are the days of the years of bed-rest, the isolation from the world, the doctoring by hope, the white plague is still in Ohio—still alive, still troublesome, but condemned.

“By the end of this century, tuberculosis will be as rare as typhoid,” said Dale Hollern, executive director of the Ohio Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

Ohio has been closing down TB hospitals since 1954—even years after streptomycin gave the big breakthrough and four years after the development of isoniazid.

It hasn't always been easy. “Traditionally,” said Hollern, “communities have taken great pride in their tuberculosis hospitals. It can be extremely difficult to close them down.”

Five have been closed in the state this year—Chillicothe, Lima, Mansfield, Nelsonville and Cincinnati. A sixth, Benjamin Franklin Hospital in Columbus, will close this fall.

“Others will have to go,” said Hollern. “We could handle all the TB hospital cases in one hospital.”

A few more than 300 Ohioans are being treated in hospitals for the wasting disease at any given moment. Another 900 to 1,000 are taking treatment at home or in nursing homes.

But, Ohio still has 700 beds in a dozen TB hospitals. As of last April Hughes Hospital in Hamilton had two TB patients, Hillside in Warren had eight, Means Hall at Ohio State University six and Molly Stark in Canton 19.

Back in 1890 Robert Koch pinned down the tuberculosis germ, but it wasn't until 1947 and streptomycin that a cure came along. Before that, becoming infected with the tubercle bacillus was a death sentence, often a lingering illness spanning years.

Over the decades the famous fell along with the unknowns—Robert Louis Stevenson, Eleanor Roosevelt, Christy Mathewson, Red Schoendienst and many others. Opera composers seized on the disease as a graceful way to bring doom to heroine.

“Now cure is almost 100 per cent,” said Hollern. “Those deaths from TB generally involve patients who drop treatment or fail to get treatment.”

INH is a sure cure, so good that new, active cases of tuberculosis are brought into a hospital, generally, only to get them into the rhythm of taking their INH pill daily.

Hollern said TB fighters now look for three types of cases—the new and active case, the chronic which normally are elderly and suffering from other diseases and the tuberculin reactors.

New, active cases of tuberculosis normally recover in from one to two years of treatment—generally with a combination of drugs. PAS, while not a powerful killer of TB itself, inhibits TB germs from becoming resistant to killer drugs and may be used in combination with streptomycin or INH. And, the Federal Drug Administration has just licensed Rifampin, an Italian discovery. Rifampin may cost $20 a week per patient against the 43 cents for INH.

The old chronic cases may well have to take INH or some similar drug the rest of their lives.

The principal objects of search right now are those persons who react positively to TB skin tests, but who have no symptoms. It is estimated that 8 to 10 per cent of all Ohioans fall into this category.

“Until now we've discovered only about 125,000 of these reactors,” said Hollern. “That's about 10 per cent of the estimated reacting population.”

“For most of the reacting population, the danger isn't too great. Probably they will develop no symptoms all their lives, but if we had the manpower we'd like to locate every reactor, but since we do not, we have to work with the higher risks.”

A tuberculin reactor may get off the reaction list by taking one INH pill each day for one year.

“There's some disagreement over treatment,” said Hollern. “Some physicians still insist on hospitalization, not quite trusting the new drugs. Other physicians say this is nonsense.”

“Many of the people now being treated can go on working without great danger of infecting other people. Under drug treatment, patients cough less than they used to do and the bacilli are not as potent.”

Gradually treatment of those patients who need at least brief hospitalization is being conducted in general hospitals in their communicable disease ward. Others either go to private physicians or to one of Ohio's 40-50 clinics for the disease.

So close is the death of the plague that 11 Ohio counties reported no cases in 1971. Some counties are down to one new case in five years.

Homeless Cats To Avoid Death

CANFIELD, Ohio (AP)—The 22 cats of late school teacher Margaret Scott found new homes Wednesday and will not have to be destroyed as scheduled.

Heirs selling the house had planned to destroy the cats this weekend if new homes were not found for them.

Miss Hazel Buckholdt, a former fellow teacher with Mrs. Scott, said she received dozens of telephone calls from throughout Ohio Wednesday from persons wanting to take the cats.

She said the Humane Society in Salem also offered to take any cats not wanted and find homes for them.

Dear Abby: How Do You Tell A Man To Bathe?

DEAR ABBY: I have read your column for years, and still can't believe I am actually writing a "Dear Abby" letter, but here goes: This is the second time around for my husband and myself. We are both middle-aged and lost our mates in death.

My question: How do you tell a full grown adult about personal hygiene? He bathes once a week, at which time he changes his socks and underwear. This came as a terrific shock to me as he always appeared to be so well-groomed and immaculate when we were dating.

Pickaway FB Elects Nine New Trustees

The Pickaway County Farm Bureau announced the election of nine new trustees who will serve on the local board. Elected for three-year terms are Paul Schein, Deercreek Township; William Walker, Jackson Township; Dale F. Smith, Monroe Township; Don H. Streitenberger, Muhlenberg Township; Dale Bower, Pickaway Township; Max Luckhart, Saltcreek Township; Robert Black, Scioto Township; Jerry Worford, Washington Township; Mrs. Luther List, Area II Women's Trustee.

I just don't know how to tell him that I find his personal habits extremely offensive. He douses himself with sweet smelling cologne between baths.

Believe me, Abby, he is a fine man otherwise. He is a faithful reader of your column and is always quoting you to me, so if you print this letter he will see it. I don't have the nerve to tell him.

Also elected were delegates to the 1973 Ohio Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting. Joseph Peters, Route 1, Ashville, and Mrs. Norman Wilson, Route 1, will serve as delegates while Carl Schein, Route 2, is first alternate and Jerry Wolford, Route 1, Stoutsville, is second alternate.

New county policies, which become projects locally as well as recommendations to the O.F.B.F., have also been announced. Adopted, at the organization's recent county annual meeting are the following resolutions: 1) To work toward rural house numbering in Pickaway County, 2) To continue to work toward more effective prosecution of all traffic violators, particularly those under the influence of drugs or alcohol, 3) To continue efforts to bring county-wide planning and zoning to realization, 4) To support retention of capital punishment in Ohio, 5) To fully support the state income tax as it is in force now should it go to referendum in November or May, 6) To encourage adequate funding of the indemnity program for hog farmers should a herd have to be destroyed as a result of the current hog cholera epidemic, 7) to work toward limiting Daylight Savings Time to a period beginning Memorial Day and ending Labor Day.

DISMAYED

DEAR DIS: Here's your letter, and I hope it helps. (P.S. Marriages in which both partners do not bathe and change underwear daily risk being all washed up.)

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I disagree on something and want you to settle it. My wife says it is perfectly all right to ask a man who is wearing a toupee where he bought it.

I say that if a toupee LOOKS like a toupee it is no compliment, so it's best not to ask such a question.

My wife insists that I am wrong—that the wearer would be complimented, and more than happy to share the information.

What do you say, Abby?

CONSIDERING ONE

DEAR CONSIDERING ONE: I wouldn't recommend "complimenting" a stranger with an inquiry concerning his toupee. However, if you were friendly with the man when his hair was thinner, and consider the toupee a perceptible improvement, go ahead and ask.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me, and please put the answer in the paper. It may help somebody else.

How does one discourage persistent invitations from somebody they do not want to have more than a business relationship with? I have been going to the same beauty shop for five years. The operator I go to does my hair exactly the way I like it, but she keeps suggesting that we go here and there and the next place together.

I don't care to socialize with her and have said I was busy, hoping she would get the hint, but she evidently hasn't. I don't know where she ever got the idea that I would want to become a "buddy" of hers.

She is a married woman with grown children. I am a widow, with grown children and grandchildren, too ... I have a career, plenty of friends, and I am not lonely. Please tell me what to do.

DEAR NAMELESS: Unless you want to get this woman "out of your hair" professionally, as well as socially, continue to be "busy" when she suggests you go out together.

Housewives may be disappointed to learn that when the President lifted quotas on meat imports for the balance of the year the effect was somewhat less dramatic than may have been perceived.

NEW YORK (AP) — Luck is like the weather. People complain but do nothing else about it.

Of course, it is hard to think what you can do about luck except to take it as it comes. You hear of up-and-at-em guys who say they make their own luck, but if you investigate these cases you find they did it on inherited money—or else, in its own good time, their bad luck finally came along and humbled their boasts.

Over his lifetime, the average man would probably say that his luck was fifty-fifty, and probably didn't tip the balance of his life unduly toward good or bad.

But some feel they were born under a curse and that luck never smiles but always frowns on them. They are born losers. How can you tell a born loser from one who only brags that he is?

Well, beyond doubt you're a born loser if—

Your shoestring breaks not once a year in an emergency but once a month.

The day after the firm you spent 30 years with finally names you a vice president it goes into bankruptcy.

You never got to show how smart you were in school because the teachers always called on the students to recite alphabetically—and your name would be Zimmerman.

You were too small to make the basketball team and too skinny to play football.

It was only after you had paid 87 traffic tickets for going through red lights that your doctor accidentally found out you were color blind.

You were the only kid in the neighborhood whose own dog bit him every day at feeding time.

Your first blind date not only got blind after one drink—she also got sick in your car. So has every blind date you've taken out since.

No matter how close you trim your toenails, they still punch holes through a pair of new wool socks the first day you put them on.

As a kid, you screwed up your courage just once to play hooky from school—and it turned out to be a public holiday.

You're crazy about red-haired girls, but have an allergy to them, and every time you go out with one you wind up with a weeklong crimson rash all over your body.

Your face reminds all the people you meet of someone they knew before—but it's always someone they disliked.

You are unable to enjoy yourself, because any form of pleasure makes you come down with a migraine headache.

When you try to get sympathy by telling your friends all your woes and how bad your luck really is, they decide that you're not a born loser but a born liar.

That's the born loser—he can't win from losing.

Dear Editor:

I wish to express my appreciation to Mr. Clifford Kerns, director of the Circleville Junior High School Band and Mr. Gary Dean, director of the Circleville High School Band. They are the individuals most responsible for the blossoming of the Circleville bands. The high school band is now on a par with the best bands in Ohio.

Continuing success of this type requires our support, specifically our money. The band program involves over 517 students: 160 in senior high, 155 in eighth-ninth grade band, 92 in seventh and 110 in sixth grade. The fifth grade program is being organized later this month and will actively involve another 100 students.

I encourage all the citizens of Circleville to join me in supporting our fine bands when they make their door-to-door fund drive on Sept. 16, between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Rats, Family Pets

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Caroline Cook took three tame rats home as pets. Soon a few more "appeared."

Now, 14-year-old Caroline has some 40 rats, and is advertising them for sale.

Her mother explained: "A friend of Caroline's gave her three brown and white tame rats. Two turned out to be females and the other a male, but at the time we couldn't tell the difference."

"We know the difference now."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

My 4-year old grandchild can't stop sucking her thumb. This upsets my daughter so much that she bandages the child's thumb with gauze, sticks, and adhesive tape every night.

The child complains to me that the sticks hurt and keep her from sleeping.

I am unhappy about this and would like your opinion.

Mrs. M.H., N.Y.

Dear Mrs. H.:

I have read and reread your letter almost in disbelief that the situation you describe actually exists. It is inconceivable to me that any young mother could possibly have escaped all the educational campaigns about thumb-sucking and how to handle it.

Obviously, your daughter has her own psychological disturbances which make her react in such an unthinking way to your grandchild's relatively insignificant problem.

Many infants and young children derive a great deal of pleasurable security from the soothing sensation of thumb-sucking. This sometimes can well beyond the expected age when thumb-sucking normally stops. Patience and understanding are a far greater contribution to handling this problem than is the harsh method your daughter employs.

Her own tension about the child's thumb-sucking is readily transmitted to the child and serves this only to perpetuate the thumb-sucking.

Child psychologists agree that persistent thumb-sucking represents some inner tension. Certainly, this cannot be eased by the physical restraint of bandages and splints.

I am sure your daughter will have a better understanding of the total problem if she discusses it with her doctor or with a psychologist.

Unfortunately, any pressures by you on your daughter will probably intensify unpleasantness between you. It will be to help your grandchild.

Your daughter will eventually learn that if her child does stop sucking her thumb as a result of these unreasonable methods she is likely to replace the thumb-sucking habit with a far more disturbing one.

Is it possible for a hiatus hernia to heal and disappear after a length of time?

Mrs. G.T., Calif.

Dear Mrs. T.:

A hiatus hernia is a protrusion of the stomach through an opening in the diaphragm.

Normally, the esophagus, through which food goes into the stomach, passes through a small opening in the diaphragm to join the stomach. When this

By JEFFERY HART

I know this is going to sound a little wild, and I hope it doesn't blow my credibility, but a recent study I have just finished reading has convinced me that we have what amounts to a photograph of Jesus Christ—indeed, a recognizable likeness.

The book, called "The Shroud," is an investigation of the so-called Holy Shroud of Turin by an English scholar, John Walsh. It is a sober, professional and persuasive work.

Like many people, I had heard vaguely an alleged burial shroud of Jesus. Ho hum. I supposed it to be an old piece of cloth, doubtless with a few blotches of some sort, which might with some imagination be perceived as representing a face—the whole thing, of course, of murky and dubious origin.

Walsh's book is an eye-opener. He begins on May 8, 1898, when a photographer named Secondo Pia photographed, for the first time, the shroud as it was being exhibited at the cathedral in Turin. He was astounded to find that his glass-plate photographic negative was turning out as he developed it to be, in fact, a photographic positive. The shroud itself had somehow been stained in such a way that the cloth was a negative. The photographic process, subsequently confirmed by other photographs, brought out a wealth of hitherto concealed features of the shroud.

This aspect alone of Secondo Pia's discovery would seem to rule out the possibility of forgery. The shroud had been around, on record, since the 14th century, with numerous intimations of its presence earlier, and what ancient artist could, or would, fabricate details which would show up only when discerned by a 19th century device?

In a short piece like this there is no room to go into all the fascinating details, but it is a historical detective story of the first magnitude. I outline some of Walsh's story.

After examining Secondo Pia's photographs, a French scientist named Paul Joseph Vignon went to work experimentally and discovered the way in which the likeness on the shroud was produced. The traditional Jewish burial ceremony of the time employed myrrh and aloes, ground into a sort of paste, which impregnated the burial shroud and doubtless protected mourners from the unpleasant effects of decomposition. But this combination of chemicals produced a substance which, Vignon showed, would be sensitized by urea. And the body exudes that chemical profusely upon death, especially when death is accompanied by great agony. The urea exudation, acting upon the paste, produced the discoloration of the cloth.

Naturally, scholars investigated every detail of the shroud. Distinct brown stains marked the crown of thorns. A lentil-shaped wound on the right side marked the spear thrust, opening is abnormally enlarged, the stomach may be dislodged from its normal position in the abdomen.

The result is that stomach acid may find its way into the lower part of the esophagus and cause unpleasant symptoms of "heartburn" and other distress.

Many people, as they grow older, show X-ray evidence of hiatus hernia without any symptoms. The fact that it is a fixed anatomical condition means that the hiatus hernia itself will probably not disappear.

However, the symptoms and the distress can be controlled with antacids and smaller, more frequent meals.

Even more telling, departures from the scriptural narrative weighed on the side of authenticity. The shroud indicates that the nails went through the wrists, not through the hands. Anatomical experiments with cadavers showed that a nail through the hands will not sustain the body's weight, but that there is a narrow passage through the wrist which the Roman executioners must have known about.

Startling details confirm this deduction. The hand images on the shroud lack thumbs. Investigation showed that a nail, driven through that narrow passage in the wrist, collapses the thumb inward to the palm.

The shroud shows very clearly the marks of the scourging. Tiny contusions, shaped like dumbbells, were found under magnification to possess such extraordinary variety of detail as to preclude the possibility of forgery. The instrument used was identified as the Roman flagrum, familiar at the time—and, from evidence of the shroud, apparently wielded by two men, striking alternately first from the one side and then from the other.

Could the shroud be that of some other unfortunate, now anonymous? The answer is, almost certainly no. Decomposition of the body would have destroyed the image. The body represented on the shroud can have been there only a few days. In the ancient world, the dead were not ordinarily disturbed, and the decomposing body was considered unclean.

Even art history comes into the affair. It has long been noticed that the representation of Christ changed sharply around the year 300. But the new representations contain details, often irrelevant, such as a rectangular design over the nose, or a random splotch of blood, corresponding to accidental details on the shroud. The best hypothesis seems to be that the shroud was taken from the original tomb to Rome, where, during the period of the persecutions, it was carefully kept secret. Around the year 300, with the Christian church increasingly secure, the shroud was made available to pious artists. It perhaps was brought west by Crusaders. At any rate, since the 14th century it has been the property of the House of Savoy.

John Walsh's study is as fascinating as it is persuasive. And the face revealed in Secondo Pia's photographs is certainly consistent with the powerful personality we know from the old accounts. If you want to know what Jesus Christ actually looked like, well, amazingly enough, it's easy to find out.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Having reached a high-level plateau built of $57 billion in assets divided among 11 million shareholder accounts in about 400 funds, the mutual fund industry now is reassessing its role, trying to chart its future.

Looking back down the hill is easier. There were only 312,000 accounts 30 years ago. Assets back then totaled less than $500 million. The industry had nowhere to go but up, and up it rose, lifted by the new affluence.

But now the growth has stalled. Purchases still are running at a rate of more than $5 billion a year, but redemptions have jumped from a long-term average of 7 per cent of assets to more than 10 per cent.

Many fund investors are disillusioned by the erratic record of some—not all—funds. Others, it is said, have been forced to redeem because of taxes and unemployment. And others, having achieved goals, are simply cashing in.

A good many fund people claim that nothing is seriously wrong, and this may indeed be the case. But other fund managers feel the future won't be like the past. They are using the plateau as a base camp to re-equip for the next climb.

Few fund executives are more realistic about the present problems or more enthusiastic about the future than Jack Rogers, the new vice president for product development at Anchor Corp., which manages $2 billion in seven funds.

Rogers has very few doubts that Americans of middle income are waiting for new investment vehicles to be presented.

Mutual funds must recognize that the small investor is becoming more sophisticated, Rogers states. People of ordinary means are seeking advice and counseling. They are searching for ways to develop and preserve small estates.

As he sees it, they aren't giving up on mutual funds, but quite clearly they are seeking additional vehicles for their investments and are seeking coordination of tax planning, insurance, investments, savings, pensions and so on.

Viewed in the context of the past, the product of a mutual fund management company would be only one small element in this total plan. But Rogers and a few others see the management company of the future as providing all these products.

The new view, as expressed by Rogers is that the fund management company is the connective tissue that binds together all the elements of estate planning.

The small investor is "avaricious" for investments advice and outlets, Rogers feels, adding that people of average means recognize the value of shrewd investments, especially in regard to inflation and taxes.

Now, he says, "if we put our imprimatur on a deal the dealers will be inclined to sell our product."

And if Rogers' reasoning is correct, the people will buy.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Sept. 14, the 238th day of 1972. There are 108 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1901, President William McKinley died in Buffalo, N.Y., from gunshot wounds inflicted by an anarchist, Theodore Roosevelt became the 26th president.

On this date:

In 1628, the second settlement in Massachusetts—Salem—was chartered by John Endecott.

In 1778, Benjamin Franklin was named a special U.S. minister to France.

In 1940, Congress passed the Selective Service Act, which was the first peacetime draft in U.S. history.

In 1963, Mrs. Andrew Fischer of Aberdeen, S.D., gave birth to quintuplets.

They'll Do It Every Time

Minor Meat Effect

Housewives may be disappointed to learn that when the President lifted quotas on meat imports for the balance of the year the effect was somewhat less dramatic than may have been perceived.

The type of meat available for immediate import into the United States for the most part is not the high quality meat many shoppers choose at meat counters.

When a State Department representative told envoys of 12 meat-exporting countries that the market in the U.S.

"is now wide open and we will take all you can send," he may have had in mind such meats as hot dogs and hamburgers. Those are the meats Treasury Secretary George Shultz admitted would be among the items most affected.

So if the price of prime meats is little affected by the lifting of "voluntary" import quotas, it isn't that the strategy has failed. It is only because the United States is the major producer as well as consumer of meats of prime quality.

NEW YORK (AP) — Luck is like the weather. People complain but do nothing else about it.

Of course, it is hard to think what you can do about luck except to take it as it comes. You hear of up-and-at-em guys who say they make their own luck, but if you investigate these cases you find they did it on inherited money—or else, in its own good time, their bad luck finally came along and humbled their boasts.

Over his lifetime, the average man would probably say that his luck was fifty-fifty, and probably didn't tip the balance of his life unduly toward good or bad.

But some feel they were born under a curse and that luck never smiles but always frowns on them. They are born losers. How can you tell a born loser from one who only brags that he is?

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

My 4-year old grandchild can't stop sucking her thumb. This upsets my daughter so much that she bandages the child's thumb with gauze, sticks, and adhesive tape every night.

The child complains to me that the sticks hurt and keep her from sleeping.

I am unhappy about this and would like your opinion.

Mrs. M.H., N.Y.

I have read and reread your letter almost in disbelief that the situation you describe actually exists. It is inconceivable to me that any young mother could possibly have escaped all the educational campaigns about thumb-sucking and how to handle it.

Obviously, your daughter has her own psychological disturbances which make her react in such an unthinking way to your grandchild's relatively insignificant problem.

Many infants and young children derive a great deal of pleasurable security from the soothing sensation of thumb-sucking. This sometimes comes well beyond the expected age when thumb-sucking normally stops. Patience and understanding are a far greater contribution to handling this problem than is the harsh method your daughter employs.

Her own tension about the child's thumb-sucking is readily transmitted to the child and serves this only to perpetuate the thumb-sucking.

Child psychologists agree that persistent thumb-sucking represents some inner tension. Certainly, this cannot be eased by the physical restraint of bandages and splints.

I am sure your daughter will have a better understanding of the total problem if she discusses it with her doctor or with a psychologist.

Unfortunately, any pressures by you on your daughter will probably intensify unpleasantness between you. It will be to help your grandchild.

Your daughter will eventually learn that if her child does stop sucking her thumb as a result of these unreasonable methods she is likely to replace the thumb-sucking habit with a far more disturbing one.

Is it possible for a hiatus hernia to heal and disappear after a length of time?

Mrs. G.T., Calif.

Dear Mrs. T.: A hiatus hernia is a protrusion of the stomach through an opening in the diaphragm.

Normally, the esophagus, through which food goes into the stomach, passes through a small opening in the diaphragm to join the stomach. When this

By JEFFERY HART

I know this is going to sound a little wild, and I hope it doesn't blow my credibility, but a recent study I have just finished reading has convinced me that we have what amounts to a photograph of Jesus Christ—indeed, a recognizable likeness.

The book, called "The Shroud," is an investigation of the so-called Holy Shroud of Turin by an English scholar, John Walsh. It is a sober, professional and persuasive work.

Like many people, I had heard vaguely an alleged burial shroud of Jesus. Ho hum. I supposed it to be an old piece of cloth, doubtless with a few splashes of some sort, which might with some imagination be perceived as representing a face — the whole thing, of course, of murky and dubious origin.

Walsh's book is an eye-opener. He begins on May 8, 1898, when a photographer named Secondo Pia photographed, for the first time, the shroud as it was being exhibited at the cathedral in Turin. He was astounded to find that his glass-plate photographic negative was turning out as he developed it to be, in fact, a photograph positive. The shroud itself had somehow been stained in such a way that the cloth was a negative. The photographic process, subsequently confirmed by other photographs, brought out a wealth of hitherto concealed features of the shroud.

This aspect alone of Secondo Pia's discovery would seem to rule out the possibility of forgery. The shroud had been around, on record, since the 14th century, with numerous intimations of its presence earlier, and what ancient artist could, or would, fabricate details which would show up only when discerned by a 19th century device?

In a short piece like this there is no room to go into all the fascinating details, but it is a historical detective story of the first magnitude. I outline some of Walsh's story.

After examining Secondo Pia's photographs, a French scientist named Paul Joseph Vignon went to work experimentally and discovered the way in which the likeness on the shroud was produced. The traditional Jewish burial ceremony of the time employed myrrh and aloes, ground into a sort of past, which impregnated the burial shroud and doubtless protected mourners from the unpleasant effects of decomposition. But this combination of chemicals produced a substance which, Vignon showed, would be sensitized by urea. And the body exudes that chemical profusely upon death, especially when death is accompanied by great agony. The urea exudation, acting upon the paste,

Wheat Yields May Be Set By Producer

The Pickaway County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee have advised wheat yields may be established by the producer.

The basic provisions for proven wheat yields are continued under the Agricultural Act of 1970.

Farmers may elect to establish a wheat yield for their farm based on actual production. The base period for establishing the yield is 1969-1970 and 1971 to prove the yield a farmer must have produced wheat on the farm in each of these three years and be able to provide reliable proof of production.

In order to assure consideration the farm operator may file a written request on or before September 29, 1972. Production data timely received will be considered before notifying of official 1973 farm wheat yield.

Pilot Brings Crippled Jet Down Safely At WPAFB

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A Boeing 707, with the faulty nose gear that forced an emergency landing here locked down, was flown to American Airlines' maintenance base at Tulsa, Okla., Wednesday night for repairs.

Earlier in the day 78 passengers took other commercial flights from Cox Municipal Airport for Detroit and Buffalo, N.Y.

The big jet was diverted from a scheduled landing at Detroit and was brought down on a foam-covered runway at nearby Wright-Patterson Air Force Base Wednesday after it was discovered the front landing gear had not locked into place.

A base spokesman said the pilot, Capt. J.O. Cummings of Los Angeles, did "a beautiful job" in landing the 707 safely.

"It was an excellent landing under these circumstances," the spokesman said. "He kept the nose up until the plane was moving so slowly it had to drop."

One passenger, Tony Miranda, 46, of Detroit, suffered a fractured hand during the landing. Two others, Adele Wiaz, 62, of Depew, N.Y., and Wallace Copeland of Chicago, received medical examinations. None was hospitalized.

Two sailors who were aboard the plane were detained by Air Police at the request of officials at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center near Chicago who said they resembled two men wanted on robbery charges. They were not identified.

How The Weather Looks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Here is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service:

Flash flood watches have been issued for Columbiana and Jefferson counties in eastern Ohio after a night of heavy rain.

Extensive flooding has been reported in Putnam, Williams and Defiance counties following the showers and thundershowers that moved across the northern half of the state.

The showers and thundershowers have been triggered by a cold front extending across the lower Great Lakes region. The precipitation will move into central and southern Ohio today.

Skies will be clear over the north Friday, but cloudiness will linger over the extreme south.

Lows tonight will be in the 60s. Highs on Friday will reach the 70s.

Northwest Ohio Flood Reported

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP)—The Defiance County Sheriff's Department began evacuating families in the Hicksville area early today amid reports of extensive flooding in parts of rural Putnam, Williams and Defiance counties.

The sheriff's department received unofficial reports of up to seven inches of rainfall overnight in the Hicksville area. Deputies said part of the town was under two feet of water.

Authorities also said Ohio 18 and Ohio 2 were closed in the Hicksville area.

Hicksville is near the Ohio-Indiana border.

showers and occasional thunderstorms central and south. Cooler north with partial clearing late tonight. Lows in the 60s. Partly cloudy north Friday and cloudy south with a few showers and thundershowers ending in the extreme south during the morning. Cooler. Highs in the 70s.

LAKE SHORE, NORTHEAST INLAND, NORTHWEST INLAND — Partial clearing and cooler tonight. Lows around 60s. Partly cloudy and cool Friday. Highs 70 to 75.

WEST CENTRAL, EAST CENTRAL — Cloudy with showers and occasional thundershowers tonight. Lows in the low to mid 60s. Partial clearing and cooler Friday. Highs in the mid to upper 70s.

SOUTHWEST, SOUTHEAST — Cloudy tonight with showers and occasional thunderstorms. Lows in the 60s. Mostly cloudy and cooler Friday with a chance of showers and thundershowers during the morning. Highs in the upper 70s.

Storms Still In Picture

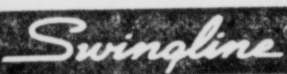

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms erupted on a broad front today from the mountains of the Southwest, across the Midwest and into New England.

The heaviest-hit areas were from Nebraska and Kansas to Pennsylvania, where hail, high winds and heavy rains were reported.

Oak Grove, Mo., east of Kansas City was whipped by wind gusts at 60 to 70 miles per hour. Peoria, Ill.; Findlay, Ohio, and Pittsburgh all were drenched with nearly 1 1/2 inches of rain.

The Northwest had cool, pleasant weather while the Southeast still sweltered in warm and humid conditions. A few thunderstorms hit the Gulf and south Atlantic states.

'Books That Changed America' Program For Monday Club Meeting

The first meeting for the 1972-73 year of The Monday Club was held in the meeting room of the Historical Society with the retiring president, Mrs. William Cox, presiding during the final reports of officers and committee chairmen. The gavel was then presented to the newly installed president, Mrs. William Curtis, who conducted the remainder of the business meeting.

Mrs. Curtis announced the Fall Conference of Central Ohio River District would be held in the Circleville Community United Methodist Church on Oct. 5th. The Monday Club and Junior Women's Club will be joint hostesses on this occasion. Chairmen from the Monday Club will be Mrs. Bishop Given, registration; Mrs. William Cox, coffee hour; Mrs. Rex Wood, exhibits and Mrs. George Barnes, general needs.

Mrs. Curtis appointed the following standing committees for the 1972-73 year; budget, Mrs. George Barnes, Mrs. O. E. Barr and Miss Eleanor Snyder; scholarship, Mrs. Henry Walters and Mrs. Ralph Dunkle; tellers, Mrs. Charles Pugsley, Mrs. David Harmon, and Mrs. J. Austin Dowden; credentials, Mrs. James Reichelderfer, Mrs. Walter Kinder and Mrs. E. S. Shane; blind goods, Mrs. Doyle Painter, Mrs. Dean Logan and Mrs. Collis Young; Ohioana calendars, Mrs. Franklin Estes, Mrs. Robert Adkins and Mrs. Harold Stevenson.

The program for the evening was prepared by Mrs. John Davis whose subject was "Books That Changed America."

Mrs. Davis prefaced her paper with the remark that instead of using the original topic she was going to limit herself to books that in some way changed or are changing American thought, and she further stated that in this the International Book Year she thought it was most appropriate that the program committee had chosen for its theme "What's Dweyning In Books" for quite a bit is doing all over the world.

Many nations have special year long projects, not the least of which is France which is presenting six literary classics as a gift to each couple who marry in 1972. In his book, "Who Are The Major American Writers," Jay B. Hubbell lists no less than 20 tables of best books, best fiction, most influential books, etc.

Mrs. Davis divided her paper into five periods (1) After the Revolution (2) The Civil War (3) The First World War (4) The 30's and 40's and (5) The 50's 60's and 70's and discussed books from each period. She gave credit for much of her material to Marcus Cunliff's book "The Literature Of The U.S."

In discussing the period, after the Revolution, Mrs. Davis stated that the political events of the Revolution concern us only to the extent that the literature was largely political, but after the war had given the 13 colonies their political independence, they began demanding a national literature. The United States had been made to feel that a great literature was essential to the proof of a nation's greatness. What Americans wanted was a literature that would match the magnitude of the continent and exalt the destiny of a great nation. A handful of American writers had by 1820 already found favor with some English critics, but it was not until the 1920's that the English would give to living American authors the praise our ancestors had hoped to hear a century earlier.

The first notable writer to emerge, Washington Irving, hardly answered the demand for a great American writer. Yet "The Sketch Book" was enough to prove that an American could write excellent prose. Dickens admired and imitated him, but Irving's works were hardly the kind of book that Americans were demanding. Irving however, was not without love for the land of his birth. In the Legend of "Sleepy Hollow" and in "Rip Van Winkle" which is based on an old German legend, he threw a glamour of romance and tradition over the region in which he had grown up. He was our local colorist and a creator of legends of places still without a peer in our literature. By 1850 The United States had created something of a national literature. It had also a strong sentiment of nationalism, and this was in great measure a literary achievement.

Mrs. Davis took up the second period by saying that the Civil War produced little literature of merit if we except the poems of Whitman and Melville. Very few important American authors were involved in the fighting. In poetry the war did call forth a crop of martial and commemorative pieces but however moving these were for American readers, they were not for export. The war also brought a new clamor for native writers to celebrate America's virtues in ink, but one who did not celebrate America's virtues was Harriet Beecher Stowe who wrote the spectacularly successful novel "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Uncle Tom became one of the best known Negroes in America, even if he was too good to be true.

Mrs. Davis feels that the 19th century came to its end not in December, 1900, but in August, 1914, with the outbreak of the First World War. An age of wars and revolutions of unprecedented magnitude had begun, and in April, 1917 peaceful, idealistic America was drawn out of its traditional isolation to fight a war on the other side of the Atlantic. The new century was to be an age of conflicting ideologies, of mass insanities, of unscrupulous dictators, of rapidly changing manners and moral codes, an age of anxiety, insecurity, and for millions, stark tragedy.

In literary history the year 1922 is clearly the turning point. It was the year of Sinclair Lewis' "Babbitt," of Scott Fitzgerald's "Tales Of The Jazz Age," of James Joyce's "Ulysses," and of T. S. Eliot's "The Wasteland."

In 1930 when the Nobel Prize for literature was awarded to Sinclair Lewis, the new American fiction was being widely read in many European countries. With the Armistice of 1918 the American prose writer entered a new period of revolt. The generation saw changes in the social structure, for the war had made a new rich class, a new poor class, and given labor a new status. The generation also found the status of women altered by the obtaining of jobs from which men had gone marching off to war.

It was generally a time of breaking old standards and the coming of new ones. The battle of the 20's for freedom in language and sex relations were taken for granted and liquor was available to those who would drink. As the nation crept out of the shambles of depression, the popularity of mystery stories, and historical romances did not slacken, but books about warring ideologies also attracted attention. Hitler's "Mein Kampf" and Hemingway's "For Whom The Bell Tolls" stayed on the best seller list for 2 years.

This brings us to the 50s, 60's, and 70's. What books from this period changed American thought or are changing it? Hemingway and Faulkner have provided the standards for fiction; O'Neill for drama; and to a certain extent, Eliot for poetry. No new school of significance has emerged. Most fiction is generally introspective and limited in scope. In 1970 books on ecology were beginning to be popular with Rachel Carson's "Silent Spring" leading the way. Another leading book was Charles Reich's "The Greening of America" also there was Alvin Toffler's "Future Shock."

Indian Lake Level Will Be Lowered

COLUMBUS, Ohio AP)—The Natural Resources Department says it will start lowering the water level of Indian Lake in Logan County Friday to prepare for repairs on the dam.

Officials said the level will be lowered about three feet for six to eight weeks. Workmen will patch places in the dam that have been chipped gouged and cracked and will build a wall along the back of the dam to protect it from ice.

If you want to roast almonds after blanching, place the nuts one deep in a shallow baking pan. Heat the nuts in a 375-degree oven until lightly brown - this may take as long as 20 minutes. Stir the nuts a couple of times during the roasting to prevent scorching.

Henn-Fulton Nuptial Vows Read In Lutheran Church

MR. AND MRS. STEVEN WAYNE FULTON

Miss Cora Lee Henn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Henn, 249 Nicholas Drive, Circleville, became the bride of Mr. Steven Wayne Fulton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Park, Fulton, Columbus, on Sept. 9th.

The double ring ceremony took place with Pastor Carl G. Zehner officiating at 4:30 p.m. in Trinity Lutheran Church. Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Tom Downing, organist and Mr. Roger Allen, vocalist. Vases of gladioli and mums in shades of yellow, orange, lavender and bronze with fall foliage decorated the church for the occasion.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a formal length gown of bridal satin covered with sheer mist nylon fashioned with a high waist, scooped neckline and bell sleeves trimmed with Venice lace medallions enhanced with seed pearls. The bride's tiered waist length English silk illusion veil was caught to a half-bonnet of matching satin and nylon adorned with seed pearls.

Miss Ruth Ann Henn served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Debbie Wilson and Miss Jennifer Woodward. They were gowned in full length flopped cotton dresses with high waists, full skirts and short puffed sleeves. Bows of material matching their gowns were headpieces. The honor attendant was in lavender and the bridesmaids in bronze. They carried bouquets of yellow daisy mums and tangerine carnations with accents of fall and streamers of yellow picot ribbon.

Mr. Robert Hamill was best man and ushers were Mr. Orville Keeling and Mr. Mark Gussler.

The bride's mother was attired in a two piece jacket dress of green double knit print jersey with black accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink crepe dress with long, full chiffon sleeves and black accessories. They both wore corsages of white daisy mums.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the American Legion Post Home of Unit 134. The room was decorated with bronze and orchid streamer and the bride's table held an arrangement of fall flowers. Hostesses were Miss Debbie Reed, Miss Kathy Henn, Mrs. Dorothy Stewart and Miss Della Stewart.

The new Mrs. Fulton graduated from Circleville High School, attended Columbus Business University and is employed by Midland Life Insurance Co. in Columbus.

Mr. Fulton graduated from Titusville High School and attended Brevard Junior College in Florida and Franklin University in Columbus. He is a member of the U.S. Marine Reserves and is employed as a part time manager in Columbus where the couple will reside.

Views On TV-Pedia

By BOB THOMAS

Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Black performers, rare in a television series five years ago, will be more in evidence than ever this season.

As the 1972-73 season begins, television viewers will be seeing more blacks.

The reason is pressure from the government and Negro organizations and concerned whites who believe that black representation on television is long overdue. Also, advertisers consider it good sense; blacks buy their products, too.

Blacks star in three of the new shows. Bill Cosby has returned to television with a Monday night CBS variety show (he also presents a children's show on Saturday morning). Cleavon Little, who won a Tony for his Broadway performance in "Purlie," is costarring with James Whitmore in ABC's "Temperature's Rising," a hospital comedy. George Stanford Brown plays one of the crime-fighters in "Rookies."

Among the other new shows featuring black actors:

"MASH" — Timothy Brown and Odessa Cleveland; "Maude" — Esther Rolle; "Emergency" — Ron Pinkard and Lillian Lehman; "Search" — Albert "Poppy" Popwell; "Bridget Loves Bernie" — Otis Foster; "The New Bill Cosby Show" — Lola Falana, singer-dancer, comedian Oscar De Gruy and musical director Quincy Jones.

Five of the returning series spotlight black stars.

The winner and still champion of the television variety sweepstakes is NBC's Flip Wilson. Greg Morris remains a regular on "Mission: Impossible" and Clarence Williams III on "The Mod Squad." Lloyd Haynes returns as history teacher Pete Dixon on "Room 222," with Denise Nicholas as his love-interest costar.

Redd Foxx and Demond Wilson are back as the battling "Sanford and Son."

"The Dean Martin Show" for the first time will feature a black regular — comedian Nipsey Russell. Also, Martin's beauteous Dinerlings will be integrated for the first time with the addition of Jayne Kennedy.

Gail Fisher continues her long-running role as secretary to Mike Conors on "Mannix," and Don Mitchell returns as Raymond Burr's aide in "Ironside." Mike Evans will again be bugging Archie Bunker on "All in the Family."

Terry Carter plays Detective Sgt. Joe Broadhurst on "McCloud" with Dennis Weaver. John Amos remains as the television weatherman on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

Mystery seat winner on the bus is Donna Jordan.

Remember the Christian Women's Club meeting Wednesday at Pickaway Arms — 11:45 a.m. to 2 p.m. It will feature Addie Lockard's "Flower arrangements," with music by Geneva Ullman. Speaker is Jane Schoonover. Make reservations before Sept. 18 with Jane Schneider, 474-4839.

Mrs. Loring Albright, and sister Opal Hutchinson of Columbus, have returned from several days vacation in Nashville, Tenn. While there they toured several places of interest and took a river boat cruise on the famous Belle Carol along the historic and beautiful Cumberland River. This boat is one of the few remaining, authentic sternwheelers. The 85-foot paddle wheel boat traveled about 10 miles up the river, while Dr. Hugh Claughton, the captain, gave riders a commentary on river lore. He told of the cave along the river where the first white child of Nashville was born.

The boat ride was up past the Opryland U.S.A. and docked at Fort Nashville. The travellers enjoyed Grand Ole Opry, Friday and Saturday nights.

Upon returning home Sunday from our trip I was informed my son Jim Albright and daughter Nancy Grewell, had both been admitted in separate hospitals. Jim had knee surgery on Friday at Mercy Hospital, room 427A and is hoping to get home soon. Mrs. Nancy Grewell was admitted to Grant Hospital, room 826, and had surgery on Tuesday. I knew they were scheduled for later in the month, but rooms were available at an earlier date. Trusting they both come along o.k.

Dudley and Doris Steele of Grove City were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Max Steele.

From our community we had Lee Ann and Kenneth Eyerma participating in the 4-H Bicycle Day Activity Aug. 31 at the Ohio State Fair. Lee Ann received third place in her age group.

The Wade 66th annual reunion was held Sept. 10 in Richland County, near Bellville, O., at the Wade Gatton Nursery. Several from our community attended.

Mr. William Frances of Miami, Fla. was a recent visitor with Eva Burnley and Cora Graham. Mr. Frances was a neighbor of Eva and Cora when they were living in Miami.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barton of Adephi were Friday afternoon callers on Mr. and Mrs. Max Steele.

Social Security Answers

Q. Is everyone who gets monthly social security payments eligible for Medicare?

A. No. You must be 65. If you're 65 or over and are entitled to monthly social security benefits, you are automatically eligible for Medicare's hospital insurance. Almost everyone now reaching 65 can sign up for the medical insurance part of Medicare as well. This is optional and involves payment of a monthly premium.

Q. I'm 68 and I get monthly retirement benefits, but I just started working again. Since I expect to earn over $1,680 this year, when should I notify social security of my earnings?

A. Report your estimated earnings as soon as possible. Based on your estimate, an adjustment can be made in your checks for the year so you may not be overpaid and have to repay money after the end of the year.

Q. After working for nearly 30 years, I can feel myself slowing down physically in the last few years. How serious a disability must I have to get monthly social security disability payments?

A. For social security purposes, you are considered disabled if you have a severe physical or mental condition which keeps you from doing any kind of substantial work, and which is expected to last a year or longer.

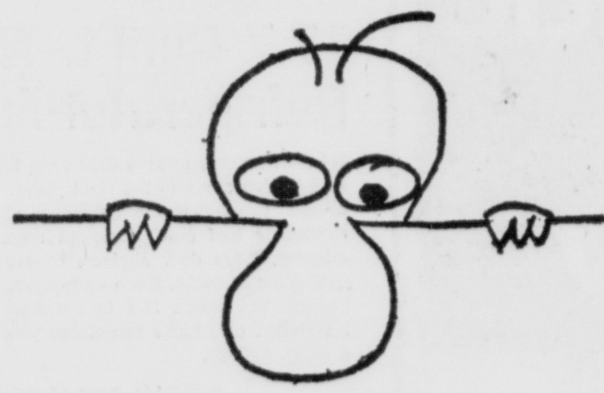

Q. I work on a farm, and I sometimes get paid in produce, such as milk, eggs, and butter. Should this produce be reported as wages under social security?

A. No. Only cash pay for farm work counts as wages under social security.

Q. I'm a homemaker. I've never worked outside my home except last summer when I worked in a friend's store. Could I get a refund of my social security taxes from that job?

A. No. Social security taxes cannot be refunded. But the work credits remain on your record, and if you take another job covered by social security, you'll continue to build social security protection.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Black performers, rare in a television series five years ago, will be more in evidence than ever this season.

As the 1972-73 season begins, television viewers will be seeing more blacks.

The reason is pressure from the government and Negro organizations and concerned whites who believe that black representation on television is long overdue. Also, advertisers consider it good sense; blacks buy their products, too.

Blacks star in three of the new shows. Bill Cosby has returned to television with a Monday night CBS variety show (he also presents a children's show on Saturday morning). Cleavon Little, who won a Tony for his Broadway performance in "Purlie," is costarring with James Whitmore in ABC's "Temperature's Rising," a hospital comedy. George Stanford Brown plays one of the crime-fighters in "Rookies."

Among the other new shows featuring black actors:

"MASH" — Timothy Brown and Odessa Cleveland; "Maude" — Esther Rolle; "Emergency" — Ron Pinkard and Lillian Lehman; "Search" — Albert "Poppy" Popwell; "Bridget Loves Bernie" — Otis Foster; "The New Bill Cosby Show" — Lola Falana, singer-dancer, comedian Oscar DeGrav and musical director Quincy Jones.

Five of the returning series spotlight black stars.

The winner and still champion of the television variety sweepstakes is NBC's Flip Wilson. Greg Morris remains a regular on "Mission: Impossible" and Clarence Williams III on "The Mod Squad." Lloyd Haines returns as history teacher Pete Dixon on "Room 222," with Denise Nicholas as his love-interest costar.

Redd Foxx and Demond Wilson are back as the battling "Sanford and Son."

"The Dean Martin Show" for the first time will feature a black regular — comedian Nipsey Russell. Also, Martin's beautiful Dingalinges will be integrated for the first time with the addition of Jayne Kennedy.

Gail Fisher continues her long-running role as secretary to Mike Connors on "Mannix," and Don Mitchell returns as Raymond Burr's aide in "Ironside." Mike Evans will again be bugging Archie Bunker on "All in the Family."

Terry Carter plays Detective Sgt. Joe Broadhurst on "McCloud" with Dennis Weaver. John Amos remains as the television weatherman on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

Expect Vote To Go Well In Cuyahoga

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted Brown says Cleveland area voters can relax.

Come presidential election day in November, polling places should be open on time and voting machines should be functioning and ready to use.

Brown, the state's chief election officer, is betting the Cuyahoga County Board of Elections on it.

Since the May primary fiasco, which included machines that didn't arrive at polling places—on time or at all—others that were locked and unseizable and some precincts that never opened, the county board has been under probation pending the outcome of the November balloting.

"It is unbelievable what happened up there in May," Brown said. He attributed the mixup, which necessitated holding elections in 34 precincts a second time, to "poor administration."

Since then a number of changes have been made, including the appointment of a new board director, and Brown predicts, "we'll have a good November."

Ashville Plans To Reduce Storm Water In Sewers

The village of Ashville has initiated a program for the reduction of storm waters and infiltration into the sanitary sewers.

The work is being done by Supt. Steve Cook and Assistant William Haddock. Each property in Ashville will be checked to see if it is in violation of Ordinance No. 820, Section 5-A, which reads:

"No person shall discharge or cause to be discharged any storm water, surface water, ground water, roof run-off, foundation drains, sub-surface drainage, cooling water or unpolluted industrial process waters to any sanitary sewer."

All violators will be notified by certified mail.

Shriver Slates Visit To Toledo

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Democratic vice presidential candidate R. Sargent Shriver will tour Toledo's Chrysler plant and then meet Toledo officials Friday to begin a one-day campaign tour of Northern Ohio.

A Democratic spokesman in Cleveland said Shriver will arrive at Toledo Express Airport at 3 p.m. Friday, tour the Chrysler plant at 3:40 p.m., hold a cocktail party for labor leaders and local politicians between 4:45 and 5:30 p.m., and leave Express Airport for Cleveland at 6 p.m.

Shriver's Cleveland schedule has not been completed, but he is to dine with area ethnic leaders and address a voter registration drive at 8:30 p.m.

Saxbe And Hollings Stump For Presidential Candidates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio, said President Nixon had made inroads in winding down the war and solving the country's economic problems.

Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., said Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern is concerned not with "the Vietnamization of Vietnam," but with the "Americanization of America itself."

The two U.S. senators promoted their presidential candidacies in appearances Wednesday at the closing session of the annual meeting of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards.

Saxbe said under Nixon the country had "more solid hope for peace than ever before." On the domestic front, he said "there are more jobholders than ever before."

Hollings said McGovern would not curtail America's commitments abroad, but merely wanted to "sell America first." He said McGovern "knows if we can corral science and industry to put a man on the moon, we can put a man on his feet."

Saxbe called McGovern's proposals "outlandish" and said the South Dakota senator was responding "to the new left responsible for his nomination."

While he believes McGovern will be defeated soundly in November, Saxbe said he thinks the two-party system is safe.

Hollings said he didn't agree with either McGovern or Nixon's welfare programs, saying one was trying to outdo the other.

"If you think McGovern was inconsistent trying to describe his program," he added, "you should hear Nixon trying to describe his." He predicted neither would be adopted.

CROP Walk Meeting Set For Sunday

The first planning meeting for the 1972 CROP Hunger Walk will be held this Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. in Community United Methodist Church of Circleville.

All Youth Groups and Junior and Senior High School organizations in Pickaway County are invited to be represented at this meeting to help with the planning. The Hunger Walk is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, Nov. 12.

Last year over 225 young people walked for crop and collected over $3,600 from their sponsors. CROP is a program of Church World Service which aids people around the world to develop their own sources of food.

Netzley Opens Campaign For Removal Of Kurfess

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—"A goat on the rump of an elephant isn't going to stampede the herd," House Speaker Charles Kurfess observed Wednesday night.

He was responding to a call by Rep. Robert Netzley, R-7 Laura, that Kurfess be removed as chairman of the Ohio GOP Platform Committee because he supported the Democratic administration's state income tax bill.

Kurfess, here for a Young Republicans meeting, declined further comments, saying he would discuss any "substantive" issues Netzley raised, but would not engage in personalities.

Netzley, in a letter to state GOP Chairman John Andrews, said Kurfess' "appointment to that vital position jeopardizes the candidacy of every Republican for the state legislature."

Andrews, who said he had not read the letter, but did have the gist of it, responded: "I have far too many more important things to think about at the moment. I'll think about it later."

The committee meets in Columbus next week to act on a statement of issues to be used by the Republican legislative candidates in the November election.

A spokesman for Kurfess said

Hymn Sing Slated

The Crusaders Sunday School Class of Calvary United Methodist Church is sponsoring a hymn sing 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the church. Featured on the program will be the Heaven Bound Trio of Columbus, Sound of Action quartet of Circleville and Wayne and Judy Cooper of Circleville.

Netzley would be "perfectly welcome" to appear before the committee if he gave the customary notice.

Netzley said Kurfess not only supported Gov. John Gilligan's income tax bill, but tried to persuade other House Republicans to vote for the measure. He said Kurfess' action makes "the income tax bill a total Republican bill."

"Kurfess held the taxpayers while Gilligan sheared them," Netzley said.

Netzley heads a group of Republican legislators trying to put repeal of the income tax before voters in November. But a dispute over petition signatures and court litigation, may delay placing the question on the ballot until next May.

Come presidential election day in November, polling places should be open on time and voting machines should be functioning and ready to use.

Brown, the state's chief election officer, is betting the Cuyahoga County Board of Elections on it.

Since the May primary fiasco, which included machines that didn't arrive at polling places—on time or at all—others that were locked and unusable and some precincts that never opened, the county board has been under probation pending the outcome of the November balloting.

"It is unbelievable what happened up there in May," Brown said. He attributed the mixup, which necessitated holding elections in 34 precincts a second time, to "poor administration."

Since then a number of changes have been made, including the appointment of a new board director, and Brown predicts, "we'll have a good November."

Ashville Plans To Reduce Storm Water In Sewers

The village of Ashville has initiated a program for the reduction of storm waters and infiltration into the sanitary sewers.

The work is being done by Supt. Steve Cook and Assistant William Haddock. Each property in Ashville will be checked to see if it is in violation of Ordinance No. 820, Section 5-A, which reads:

"No person shall discharge or cause to be discharged any storm water, surface water, ground water, roof run-off, foundation drains, sub-surface drainage, cooling water or unpolluted industrial process waters to any sanitary sewer."

All violators will be notified by certified mail.

Shriver Slates Visit To Toledo

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Democratic vice presidential candidate R. Sargent Shriver will tour Toledo's Chrysler plant and then meet Toledo officials Friday to begin a one-day campaign tour of Northern Ohio.

A Democratic spokesman in Cleveland said Shriver will arrive at Toledo Express Airport at 3 p.m. Friday, tour the Chrysler plant at 3:40 p.m., hold a cocktail party for labor leaders and local politicians between 4:45 and 5:30 p.m., and leave Express Airport for Cleveland at 6 p.m.

Shriver's Cleveland schedule has not been completed, but he is to dine with area ethnic leaders and address a voter registration drive at 8:30 p.m.

The Amazon River has about 200 major tributaries, 17 of them more than 1,000 miles long.

Saxbe And Hollings Stump For Presidential Candidates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio, said President Nixon had made inroads in winding down the war and solving the country's economic problems.

Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., said Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern is concerned not with "the Vietnamization of Vietnam," but with the "Americanization of America itself."

The two U.S. senators promoted their presidential candidacies in appearances Wednesday at the closing session of the annual meeting of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards.

Saxbe said under Nixon the country had "more solid hope for peace than ever before." On the domestic front, he said "there are more jobholders than ever before."

Hollings said McGovern would not curtail America's commitments abroad, but merely wanted to "sell America first." He said McGovern "knows if we can corral science and industry to put a man on the moon, we can put a man on his feet."

Saxbe called McGovern's proposals "outlandish" and said the South Dakota senator was responding "to the new left responsible for his nomination."

While he believes McGovern will be defeated soundly in November, Saxbe said he thinks the two-party system is safe.

CROP Walk Meeting Set For Sunday

The first planning meeting for the 1972 CROP Hunger Walk will be held this Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. in Community United Methodist Church of Circleville.

All Youth Groups and Junior and Senior High School organizations in Pickaway County are invited to be represented at this meeting to help with the planning. The Hunger Walk is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, Nov. 12.

Last year over 225 young people walked for crop and collected over $3,600 from their sponsors. CROP is a program of Church World Service which aids people around the world to develop their own sources of food.

Netzley Opens Campaign For Removal Of Kurfess

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—"A goat on the rump of an elephant isn't going to stampede the herd," House Speaker Charles Kurfess observed Wednesday night.

He was responding to a call by Rep. Robert Netzley, R-7 Laura, that Kurfess be removed as chairman of the Ohio GOP Platform Committee because he supported the Democratic administration's state income tax bill.

Kurfess, here for a Young Republicans meeting, declined further comments, saying he would discuss any "substantive" issues Netzley raised, but would not engage in personalities.

Netzley, in a letter to state GOP Chairman John Andrews, said Kurfess' "appointment to that vital position jeopardizes the candidacy of every Republican for the state legislature."

Andrews, who said he had not read the letter, but did have the gist of it, responded: "I have far too many more important things to think about at the moment. I'll think about it later."

The committee meets in Columbus next week to act on a statement of issues to be used by the Republican legislative candidates in the November election.

A spokesman for Kurfess said

Hymn Sing Slated

The Crusaders Sunday School Class of Calvary United Methodist Church is sponsoring a hymn sing 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the church. Featured on the program will be the Heaven Bound Trio of Columbus, Sound of Action quartet of Circleville and Wayne and Judy Cooper of Circleville.

Netzley would be "perfectly welcome" to appear before the committee if he gave the customary notice.

Netzley said Kurfess not only supported Gov. John Gilligan's income tax bill, but tried to persuade other House Republicans to vote for the measure. He said Kurfess' action makes "the income tax bill a total Republican bill."

"Kurfess held the taxpayers while Gilligan sheared them," Netzley said.

Netzley heads a group of Republican legislators trying to put repeal of the income tax before voters in November. But a dispute over petition signatures and court litigation, may delay placing the question on the ballot until next May.

Qualify As

Semifinalists

Two senior students from Circleville High School have been named semifinalists in the 1973 National Merit Scholarship competition for juniors and seniors in over 16,000 schools nationwide.

Locally, the honors and scholarship possibilities were awarded to Michael R. Cairns and Steven Lee Smith.

Cairns is the son of Mr. and Raymond E. Cairns, 583 Hickory Place. He has indicated his intentions to begin a pre-med course upon entering college next fall and plans to become a physician.

A career in a chemistry-related field is among the plans of young Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherill Lee Smith, 16 Morris Court.

As semifinalists, the CHS pair rank among those students in Ohio having the highest qualifying scores on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test in the National Merit Scholarship program given last October.

If Smith and Cairns advance to finalist standing, they will be considered for the Merit Scholarships to be awarded in Spring. To become finalists, students receive the endorsement of their schools, take a second examination and provide information about their accomplishments and interests.

High school grades, accomplishments, leadership qualities and extra-curricular activities are evaluated, along with test scores, in selection Merit Scholarship winners.

B52s Pound DMZ Targets To Aid Quang Tri Drive

SAIGON (AP) — Nearly 50 U.S. B52 bombers struck on both sides of the demilitarized zone today in support of South Vietnamese marines locked in hard fighting at Quang Tri.

The eight-jet Stratofortress hit at North Vietnamese supply dumps and troop positions at points ranging from near the port of Dong Hoi to within one mile of Quang Tri City. Dong Hoi is 45 miles north of the DMZ and is being used as a rear base to support the North Vietnamese forces at Quang Tri, 19 miles below the DMZ.

The bombers dropped more than 1,100 tons of explosives in the raids.

The Saigon command said its forces killed 103 North Vietnamese and found the bodies of 45 others slain by air strikes Wednesday. Preliminary reports said eight South Vietnamese troops were killed and 28 wounded.

North Vietnam launched an offensive below DMZ March 30 and took Quang Tri May 1. The South Vietnamese launched a counteroffensive June 28, and on Tuesday some marine elements fought their way into the 19th century Citadel.

Heavy North Vietnamese resistance prevented reinforcements from moving into the Citadel Wednesday, but the marine commander claimed he already had enough men in the fortress to hang on indefinitely.

Elsewhere, the Saigon command reported two terror attacks that killed 10 civilians and wounded 18.

A grenade tossed into a wake near the provincial capital of Cheo Reo in the central highlands killed five mourners and wounded four, the Saigon command said.

Enemy gunners fired three mortar rounds into a ferry station 20 miles south of Da Nang, killing five civilians and wounding 14, the command said.

Ohio Income Tax Squabble Could Hurt GOP

10 The Circleville Herald, Thur. Sept. 14, 1972
Circleville, Ohio

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bitter battle over the state income tax may scramble Ohio's vote for president in November. Republican leaders aren't certain they stand to benefit from the mixup.

Officially, GOP leaders smile over the troubles a splinter group of Republicans is having in trying to put repeal of the new tax on the November ballot. But it's a cautious smile. They figure such a hot side issue would bring to the polling places hordes of lower income Democrats who might not otherwise vote. They have the results of an opinion poll to back that viewpoint.

"The theory is that many Democrats aren't excited about George McGovern," said an Ohio GOP headquarters official in explaining the smiles.

Then he explained why the smiles are cautious: "There is no assurance they would vote for Republicans for Congress and on down the line."

At stake in Ohio this fall are all 99 House and 16 of 33 Senate seats in the General Assembly, along with 23 Congressional seats. Republicans control both legislative Houses now but their position of strength is by a Democrat governor who directed legislative reapportionment last year.

Ohio Republicans still remember 1958 when a right-to-work issue went on the statewide ballot. Democrats came out in masses to defeat the proposal 2 to 1 and in the process swept four of six state-wide elective offices and both houses of the legislature.

Ohio's GOP executive committee has taken no stand on the income tax, a fact Chairman John S. Andrews stresses. The dispute is between 16 rebel Republican members of the state House of Representatives, who don't want the tax, against the administration of Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan and GOP leaders in the House.

The General Assembly approved the income tax last Dec. 10 after eight months of debate. Leading Republicans provided minority Democrats with the votes to pass the measure. The tax is graduated from .5 to 3.5 per cent of income.

At the moment, the splinter group of Republicans seeking to repeal the tax are 34,114 signatures short of getting the job done.

Rep. Robert E. Netzley, R-7 Laura, led the splinter group in gathering 366,000 signatures, well over the 318,414 needed to put a constitutional amendment on the ballot. But, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, a Republican, and the 88 county Boards of Elections invalidated 81,700 signatures.

Now all is confusion, a mixture of court protests in about three dozen Ohio counties with the demands of Ohio law for five weeks of advertising in all 88 counties and for a supplemental period of 10 days in which Netzley and his colleagues have to get added signatures.

Secretary of State Brown says he can't give the 10 days until the court cases are cleared away but plans to begin advertising Sept. 24. Repeal petitioners have asked the Ohio Supreme Court to intervene.

Netzley and his repeal group argue the income tax isn't needed. Gilligan says it is, and that repealers are guilty of "the cheapest kind of deception and dirty politics."

Gilligan said the repeal legislators voted to various appropriations made possible by the new tax, then turned down the tax.

Conservative Netzley disputes Gilligan's claim that the majority of income tax revenue goes for education. He claims it's going for welfare and for several years Netzley has argued that the welfare program is full of "waste and fraud."

Ohio Income Tax Squabble Could Hurt GOP

10 The Circleville Herald, Thurs. Sept. 14, 1972
Circleville, Ohio

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bitter battle over the state income tax may scramble Ohio's vote for president in November. Republican leaders aren't certain they stand to benefit from the mixup.

Officially, GOP leaders smile over the troubles a splinter group of Republicans is having in trying to put repeal of the new tax on the November ballot. But it's a cautious smile.

They figure such a hot side issue would bring to the polling places hordes of lower income Democrats who might not otherwise vote. They have the results of an opinion poll to back that viewpoint.

Report Abrams Didn't Know Air Strikes Unauthorized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Creighton W. Abrams and Gen. John D. Lavelle have told conflicting accounts of the circumstances surrounding air strikes ordered against North Vietnam, says the chairman of a Senate committee which has questioned both behind closed doors.

Armed Service Committee Chairman John Stennis said the conflict "concerns the knowledge and extent of knowledge each had about those raids."

"I'm not surprised, but it's inconclusive yet," Stennis said after the third day of the hearing Wednesday as details of the testimony continued to emerge piecemeal.

Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., said Abrams was unaware of the exact character of 28 raids ordered by Lavelle last winter and spring before President Nixon renewed heavy bombing of North Vietnam.

Abrams himself had nothing to say to reporters as he strode briskly from the committee session after four hours' interrogation and explanation. His nomination as Army chief of staff has been held up for this inquiry.

"What he (Abrams) said was that, of course, he knew of the raids, but didn't know they were conducted outside the rules of engagement," Dominick said.

As to whether Abrams or others above Lavelle knew of the circumstances, Dominick said, "nobody had the foggiest idea the strikes were outside the rules."

Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio, addressed the war-rules question involving the 28 protective reaction raids ordered by Lavelle before he was relieved of his 7th Air Force command.

Air-war rules, Saxbe said, permitted retaliatory "protective-reaction" strikes, if a MIG fighter was in the air south of the 19th Parallel, if the U.S. reconnaissance aircraft was being fired at, or if the radar guiding antiaircraft missiles was focused on the enemy aircraft.

However, Saxbe said, Lavelle added to these rules, saying that pilots could strike also if a general sort of sky-scanning radar called GCI, for ground-controlled intercept, was turned on at the time.

The effect of this, Saxbe said, was to allow a much broader license for the attacks.

The senator quoted Lavelle as saying, "I interpreted the rules this way and I thought everybody did."

Referring to what Abrams may have known about the strikes and his frequent consultations with his subordinate, Saxbe said, "they did not know they disagreed."

"The Sly Old Cat" is an attractive little story by Beatrix Potter. A cat invites a rat to tea and then treats him rudely, offering him only the leavings of her meal. The rat fears that he is to be the dessert at this unusual tea party. Although the story was written in 1906, this is the first time that it has been published as a book. It is delightfully illustrated with Beatrix Potter's original sketches. Especially recommended for Beatrix Potter fans.

Three new Beatrix Potter records will also appeal to her followers. "The Tale of Peter Rabbit" a Caedmon record is read by Claire Bloom. Besides this tale of the beloved baby rabbit, Claire Bloom reads "The Tale of Benjamin Bunny," "The Tale of Jeremy Fisher," "The Tale of Mrs. Tiggly-Winkle," and "The Tale of Two Bad Mice."

Vivien Leigh, tells "The Tale of Jemima, Puddle-duck" a simple minded duck and her adventures with a sandy-whiskered gentleman—a fox. On the reverse side of the Golden Recording, Juliet Mills, sister of Hayley Mills, plays the part of a young girl. In these dramatized tales, the original Potter words have been used. Cyrril Orndel and David Craft have added original songs and lyrics for the characters to sing. For a Columbia recording, Ruth York reads "The Tale of Peter Rabbit." The reverse side of this record features "Jack and the Beanstalk."

"Unfortunately Harriet" by Rosemary Wells is a picture book for readers large or small who have ever spilled varnish or some similar hard to remove product on a rug. Harriet tries everything to remove or conceal the sticky varnish which she spilled on the new rug. In desperation, she decides to leave home. Fortunately, her problem is resolved before her bags are packed.

Young people just entering school will interest in Miriam Cohen's "The New Teacher", delightfully illustrated by Lillian Hoban. When Jim's first grade teacher leaves school to have a baby, he and the rest of the class are certain that the new teacher will be an ogre. Her pleasant smiles soon dispel the children's fear.

In "X Marks the Spot" young readers are introduced to some of the many ways we use "X", the most versatile letter of the alphabet. More than just the twenty-fourth letter, "X" can be a kiss at the end of a letter, the way your sneaker laces cross, the spot where buried treasure lies, and many other things as well.

Ellen Conford has written a delightful story called "Impossible, Possum." No matter how hard he tried, Randolph simply could not hang by his tail from a branch as the other possums could. It is his sister, Geraldine who eventually shows him the importance of a little self-confidence.

Court OKs Medi-Cal Experiment

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge has upheld the legality of a health care experiment under which one-third of California's 2.2 million welfare recipients pay part of their medical expenses.

U.S. District Court Judge Albert C. Wollenberg rejected on Wednesday a challenge to Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot Richardson's approval of the Medi-Cal copayment plan — the only experiment of its kind in the nation.

Recipients pay a $1 charge for each doctor visit and 50 cents for each prescription, with a $3 monthly maximum.

Only welfare recipients with other income and resources are included in the 18-month program, which ends June 30, 1973.

The suit by the California Welfare Rights Organization and a number of individuals receiving medical benefits was filed on behalf of all persons forced to pay part of their Medi-Cal bill. Previously, recipients paid nothing under the federal-state program.

To implement the experiment, HEW granted California a waiver of certain requirements concerning a welfare recipient's ability to share costs under Medi-Cal, called Medicaid in other states.

The court granted a summary judgment to the HEW secretary and other defendants, holding that Richardson acted within his authority and did not abuse his discretion.

Red Sox Retain Lead In AL East Race

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Boston Red Sox took over first place last week and still find themselves in that euphoric position. How's that for longevity?

It's not bad considering the unstable condition of the American League East pennant race, they continued baseball's version of musical chairs Wednesday night while the Red Sox solidified their hold on first with a 7-2 victory over the Yankees. If you can call a one-game lead solid, that is.

"The biggest thing that this game did for us," said Boston Manager Eddie Kasko, "is that we left home in first place and we're going home in first place." The Red Sox, who had a half-game lead Tuesday, now hold a one-game advantage over the Tigers, who beat the Orioles 6-5 Wednesday night. The night's events left the Orioles and Yankees tied for third, 1½ games back.

"It's no different than it probably was a week ago," said Kasko. "As far as trying to pick someone, or say that someone's got an advantage, well, it's all right to speculate... but you'd better not predict."

Ralph Houk, the Yankee manager, still fears the defending league champion Orioles. "I still think that Baltimore's the team to beat," said Houk. "It's hard to lose that thought in my mind."

The Oakland A's remained the team to beat in the West, beating the Minnesota Twins 8-0 to grab a three-game lead over Chicago. The White Sox lost 6-4 on a decision to the Kansas City Royals.

The Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the Cleveland Indians 3-1 and the California Angels nipped the Texas Rangers 6-5 in the other American League games.

After the Yankees chased Boston starter Lyn McGlothen on Felipe Alou's two-run double in the seventh, the Red Sox came up with three more runs in the eighth off reliever Ron Klimkowski.

Detroit rallied for five runs off Dave McNally in the fifth inning, three on a homer by Frank Howard and one on a balk by reliever Doyle Alexander, to overcome a four-run deficit and beat Baltimore.

"This is the first time that Howard has really ripped the ball since he's been here," said Detroit Manager Billy Martin, whose team acquired the slugger in a recent deal with Texas. "He was like the others on this team—over-trying."

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, looking at the pulsating pennant race, said "It

Mackey Now Up For Grabs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
John Mackey, voted the best tight end in pro football's first 50 years, now is up for grabs in the National Football League after being put on waivers by the Baltimore Colts.

The 30-year-old veteran had told the Colts he wanted to be traded or put on waivers if he would have to play behind Tom Mitchell, who was elevated to the starting tight end position last season.

The Colts announced Monday that Mackey had retired. He denied it and said he just wanted to go to another NFL team. So Coach Don McCafferty announced Wednesday that Mackey had been waived. If he is not claimed before 4 p.m., Friday he will become a free agent.

Elsewhere, Coach Don Shula said he would use a three-run back rotation in the Miami Dolphins' season opener Sunday against Kansas City.

Shula said Mercury Morris, Jim Kiick and Larry Csonka are "all first stringers." Morris said after the Dolphins' 24-3 loss to Dallas in last year's Super Bowl that he wasn't getting enough playing time, and indicated he wanted to be traded unless his status changed. He has led the Miami rushing game in preseason action with a 6.9 yard per carry average.

Roster changes made by NFL teams Wednesday included the acquisition of running backs Charlie Pittman and Dave Kopay and wide receiver Jon Stagers by the Green Bay Packers. Stagers was claimed on waivers from Pittsburgh while Pittman and Kopay were free agents after having been released recently by Baltimore and Oakland, respectively.

The New York Giants claimed running back Joe Orduña from San Francisco and placed running back Vin Clements to the taxi squad. Second-year quarterback Leo Hart was picked up by Los Angeles after being waived by Atlanta. Buffalo cut wide receiver Dennis Homan and New Orleans dropped linebacker Bob Grant.

Former Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte was acquired by the Chicago Bears. The one-time Notre Dame quarterback signed with the New York Jets for $200,000 when he ended his college career in 1964. His last club was the Kansas City Chiefs, who recently released him.

The Atlanta Falcons announced that fullback Harmon Wages would be out for the entire season because of a knee injury.

St. Louis said it has re-acquired defensive end Don Brumm from Philadelphia. The 10-year veteran was the Cardinals first draft choice in 1963 but signed with the Eagles as a free agent in 1970.

2-Run Homer By Bench Gives Reds 8-6 Victory

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Henry Aaron had one of his better nights, but it turned into a finer one for the Cincinnati Reds because of their young upstart, Johnny Bench.

The pair of superstars put on a late slugfest Wednesday night at Atlanta Stadium with the National League West leaders prevailing 8-6 in 10 innings when Bench crashed a two-run homer to defeat the Atlanta Braves.

Aaron drilled a pair of solo home runs, his second in the last of the ninth inning to send the game into overtime at 6-6.

The home runs by Aaron gave him 30 for the season and 669 for his career, leaving the 38-year-old slugger only 45 behind Babe Ruth's 714 total.

In the process Aaron shattered another of Ruth's records by marking the 14th season in which he has hit 30 or more home runs. Ruth and Aaron had been tied with 13 prior to the game.

"Every time I hit one it seems I break some record or another of Ruth's. Yet I'm still trying to catch him," Aaron said in the clubhouse.

Aaron also had a double and a pair of walks in the losing effort, increasing his batting average to .270.

In the Reds' Clubhouse, Bench, a mere 24-year-old, said he was "Very, very happy. The only thing I'm concerned about now is that magic number. That's what is important."

The Reds' magic digit is now down to nine for clinching a playoff spot in the National League.

Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson praised Aaron's performance, but nodded toward Bench and said: "I have one pretty good ball player, too."

Bench now has 33 home runs and 108 runs batted in for the season.

The victory went to Tom Hall, 9-1, who pitched five 2-3 innings of relief, giving up only two hits—both Aaron's home runs—and striking out six.

Julius Erving Saga Still In Courts

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The legal saga of Julius Erving and his contract woes with the Virginia Squires of the American Basketball Association continues to meander through the courts.

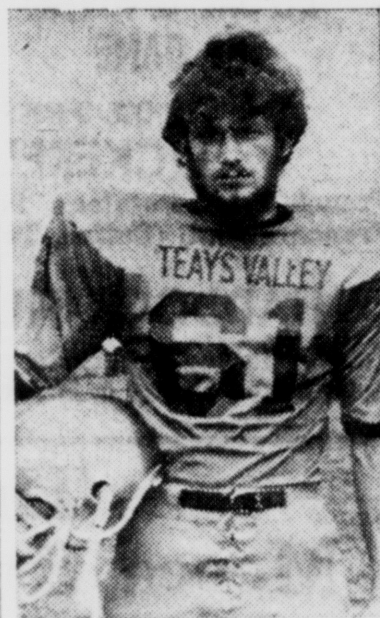

The Squires Wednesday asked the U.S. District Court here to issue a temporary restraining order to block Erving from playing with the Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association. The Squires also asked for a permanent injunction, prohibiting Erving from playing with any other professional basketball team.

Tony Perez clubbed a three-run homer, his 20th of the year, for the Reds earlier off Braves' starter Mike McQueen while Joe Morgan, Dave Concepcion and Bobby Tolan had run-scoring singles.

Atlanta scored three runs off starter Jack Billingham in the second after loading the bases with one out. McQueen got one in on an error, Ralph Garr drove in another with a single and Aaron walked with the bases full.

Atlanta's other run came on a walk to Darrel Evans with the bases loaded in the fifth.

Circleville Hosts TV Vikings In Big County Battle

It will be a jam packed crowd at Circleville Friday night when the Tigers host the Teays Valley Vikings in a county rivalry battle.

Seats will be at a premium and late comers will find standing room only when the opening whistle sends the teams into action in their annual confrontation which always produces plenty of fireworks.

"We know Teays Valley is a big strong team and will come to play," Circleville Coach Larry Cook stated.

"Our boys are mentally ready and know what they have to do to put the game in the winning ledger," Cook continued. "We must establish offensive consistency and avoid the big mistakes if we are going to succeed."

THE Tigers will be going into the contest after an opening 21-7 loss to a powerful Grove City squad.

Several costly mistakes hurt the Tigers against the Greyhounds but Circleville still came up with a good overall performance and showed they will be a team to contend with as the season rolls along.

"Our kids have come a long way under a new system and we were pleased with the job they did at Grove City," Cook offered. "We need to improve in spots but feel we are getting better all the time because these kids want to get better. I have never seen better spirit or morale than our kids have displayed."

"We had some bad breaks at Grove City which put us behind but our boys never showed any sign of quitting and stayed in the game all the way," Cook said.

After the performance against the Greyhounds, the Circleville coaches voted Reggie Radcliff defensive Tiger of the week. The hard hitting linebacker came up with 10 solo tackles and three assists to gain the award.

Dave Webb was voted the offensive Tiger award for his strong running and devastating blocking in the contest.

DAVE Truex and Gary Mogan suffered sprained ankles in the game but both are expected to be ready for Friday night. Outside of some bumps and bruises, the rest of the Tiger squad is in good shape.

"We, as coaches, feel it will be a close game with the Vikings but we are optimistic and have no doubts that our kids will be ready to go," Cook concluded.

Circleville moves from the T with multiple formations, including wing, slot, pro set and Power I.

The Tigers aerial game appears to be in good shape and with the running game rapidly improving they should eat up some yardage.

A strong defense, utilizing a 5-2 monster with zone pass coverage in the secondary, will be a key factor for the Tigers.

pounds at tight end; John Ankrom, 155 pounds, split end; Tom Frericks, 230 pounds, left tackle; Stuart Moore, 185 pounds, right tackle; Pete Bowers, 142 pounds, left guard; Reggie Radcliff, 145 pounds, right guard; Rock Davis, 160 pounds, center; Dave Truex, 180 pounds, quarterback; Eddy Richter, 155 pounds, tailback; Gary Mogan, 180 pounds, fullback; Dave Webb, 135 pounds, wingback.

THE defensive unit will be: Keith Davis or Tim Strawser, 150 pounds, middle guard; Frericks, left tackle; Keith Davis or Dennis Huston, 240 pounds, right tackle; Moore Tiger end; Dale Imbler, 165 pounds, standup end; Radcliff or McFarland, left inside linebacker; Mogan, right inside linebacker; Richter, Tiger man; Truex, 5-yard halfback; Ankrom, strong safety; Webb, middle safety.

"We always look for a tough game when we go to Circleville and don't expect it to be any different Friday night," Teays Valley Coach Dick Kidwell stated.

"Our scouts were impressed with Circleville's performance at Grove City and we know we have to stop their passing game," Kidwell continued.

The Vikings will be going into the contest looking for their second win of the season. They stopped Groveport, 13-7, with a strong defense that included a fine goal line stand to gain the victory.

"Our offensive line did a good job but our backs still need a little experience," Kidwell commented. "Several are playing new positions and it will take some time to make the adjustment."

"Defensively, we came up with some good performances and I was very pleased with the work of Lance Henson, Jim Pabst, Bill Hurley, George Hardbarger and Terry Lambert," Kidwell offered.

THE Vikings will move the ball from the triple option wishbone formation featuring sweeps inside slants and traps to gain ground. Quarterback Chuck Glitt has a good arm and the Vikings will go to the air as the situation necessitates.

The running game will be powered by All-Metro fullback Ken Stewart and the fleet Lambert.

Defensively, the Vikings will employ a 5-2 invert with a combination zone and man to man pass coverage in the secondary.

When the offensive unit of the Vikings is one the field it will be: Chris Brenton, 205 pounds, ends; John Little, 220 pounds, and Jim Pabst, 205 pounds, tackles; Howard Reed, 210 pounds, at one guard with George Hardbarger, 147 pounds, Jerry Sabine, 186 pounds, and Jim Williamson, 175 pounds, alternating at the other guard; Jim Pritchard, 178 pounds, center; Chuck Glitt, 160 pounds, quarterback; Terry Lambert, 156 pounds, and Craig Zeimer, 131 pounds, halfbacks; Ken Stewart, 171 pounds, fullback.

Defensively, it will be: Bill Hurley, 153 pounds, middle guard; Little and Reed, tackles; Henson and Pabst, ends; Sabine and Williamson, linebackers; Hardbarger and Tony Sayre, 123 pounds, invert men; Glitt and Lambert, safeties.

Choose Leaders In NFC Contest

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys are the big question mark again in the National Football League's National Conference.

Will the Cowboys go all the way again this year—despite the loss of No. 1 quarterback Roger Staubach?

Dallas will do quite well this year—probably making it to the playoffs as the No. 4 team from the NFC. But this pickin' prognosticator sees the Washington Redskins winning the East Division, with the Cowboys a close second.

Minnesota appears to be an easy winner in the Central Division but another tough race shapes up in the West between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

So, here is how the final NFC standings will look, in the fearless forecast from this corner:

East Division
Washington Redskins
Dallas Cowboys
St. Louis Cardinals
Philadelphia Eagles
New York Giants

Central Division
Minnesota Vikings
Detroit Lions
Green Bay Packers
Chicago Bears

West Division
San Francisco 49ers
Los Angeles Rams
Atlanta Falcons
New Orleans Saints

There are a lot of reasons why Dallas should win the NFC East. And there are several reasons why they won't. One of the big ones is George Allen and the Washington Redskins.

Sure, Craig Morton quarterbacked the Cowboys to the Super Bowl two seasons ago. Staubach did it last year. With Staubach not likely to see any action until the end of this season, that's one minus for the Cowboys.

The Cowboys lost running back Duane Thomas in a trade with San Diego, but they still have Calvin Hill and Walt Garrison. But that won't be quite enough.

The Dallas Domesday Defense has been one of the best in the game, but this may be the year that age starts to catch up with such stalwarts as Bob Lilly, Chuck Howley, Cornell Green and Herb Adderly.

With Sonny Jurgensen rejoining the Redskins, who also have Billy Kilmer at quarterback, Allen's crew will be tough. The Redskins' "Over-the-Hill Gang" could falter some, but not enough to keep Washington from winning its first division crown since 1945.

St. Louis may contend in the East but not strongly enough to win. The Cardinal offense could be potent with Jim Hart and Gary Cuozzo at quarterback, plus receivers Jackie Smith and Mel Gray and running backs Donny Anderson and Leon Burns. The St. Louis defense is suspect, however.

The Eagles and Giants will field teams this season. Not much else can be said for them.

Brewers Trip Tribe; Win Tilt, 3-1

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Frustrations have far exceeded achievements this season for the Milwaukee Brewers, but their 3-1 victory over Cleveland Wednesday night represented something few other American League teams can boast.

It gave the Brewers two victories in as many decisions over the Indians' ace pitcher, Gaylord Perry (20-16), who has found only Oakland, leader in the AL West, more troublesome.

Perry, who entered the game with a 2.06 earned-run average, was outshone by Brewer rookie Jerry Bell 3-1, who scattered five hits in 7 2-3 innings. Bell has surrendered just one earned run in his last 28 innings, dropping his ERA over that stretch from 3.03 to 1.72.

Bell gave up an unearned run in the second on singles by Tom McCraw and Jerry Moses around an error by Dave May. He retired 13 consecutive batters from the second through the sixth innings, then left in the eighth as Frank Linzy worked out of a jam.

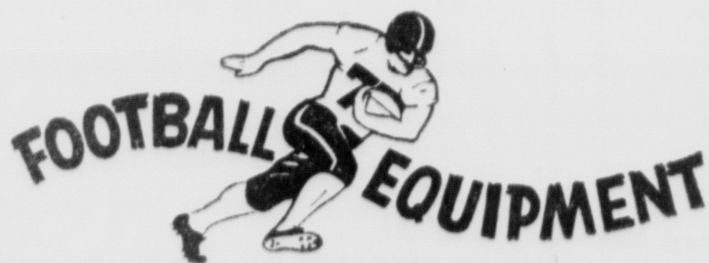

The Brewers tied it in their half of the second on a single by Mike Ferraro and triple by Rick Auerbach, and took a 2-1 lead on Joe Lahoud's 11th homer in the fourth. A hit batsman, an error, a walk and a wild pitch produced their third run in the fifth.

Circleville Hosts TV Vikings In Big County Battle

It will be a jam packed crowd at Circleville Friday night when the Tigers host the Teays Valley Vikings in a county rivalry battle.

Seats will be at a premium and late comers will find standing room only when the opening whistle sends the teams into action in their annual confrontation which always produces plenty of fireworks.

"We know Teays Valley is a big strong team and will come to play," Circleville Coach Larry Cook stated.

"Our boys are mentally ready and know what they have to do to put the game in the winning ledger," Cook continued. "We must establish offensive consistency and avoid the big mistakes if we are going to succeed."

THE Tigers will be going into the contest after an opening 21-7 loss to a powerful Grove City squad.

Several costly mistakes hurt the Tigers against the Greyhounds but Circleville still came up with a good overall performance and showed they will be a team to contend with as the season rolls along.

"Our kids have come a long way under a new system and we were pleased with the job they did at Grove City," Cook offered. "We need to improve in spots but feel we are getting better all the time because these kids want to get better. I have never seen better spirit or morale than our kids have displayed."

"We had some bad breaks at Grove City which put us behind but our boys never showed any sign of quitting and stayed in the game all the way," Cook said.

After the performance against the Greyhounds, the Circleville coaches voted Reggie Radcliff defensive Tiger of the week. The hard hitting linebacker came up with 10 solo tackles and three assists to gain the award.

Dave Webb was voted the offensive Tiger award for his strong running and devastating blocking in the contest.

DAVE Truex and Gary Mogan suffered sprained ankles in the game but both are expected to be ready for Friday night. Outside of some bumps and bruises, the rest of the Tiger squad is in good shape.

"We, as coaches, feel it will be a close game with the Vikings but we are optimistic and have no doubts that our kids will be ready to go," Cook concluded.

Circleville moves from the T with multiple formations, including wing, slot, pro set and Power I.

The Tigers aerial game appears to be in good shape and with the running game rapidly improving they should eat up some yardage.

A strong defense, utilizing a 5-2 monster with zone pass coverage in the secondary, will be a key factor for the Tigers.

Offensively, the Tigers will have Larry McFarland, 170

Jim Plunkett Proves Worry For Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim Plunkett, the big quarterback of the New England Patriots, is causing more than a little concern with the Cincinnati Bengals as both teams prepare for the season's opener.

Cincinnati is particularly worried about its defense, smarting over the 44-14 humiliation dealt them last Saturday by the Atlanta Falcons in the final preseason game. The Falcons piled up 541 yard total offense.

Defensive tackle Mike Reid said he is not satisfied with his play in the Bengals defense nor the play of the whole defensive team.

"When we get up against a big strong guy like Plunkett, it should be even tougher," he said.

"It's going to be an extra tough opener for us. The whole thing is going to be in developing confidence before the opener."

Coach Paul Brown, however, is concerned about the whole Patriots team.

"Their offensive line has always been their strength, and they're still pretty intact there," Brown said. "They've got Mike Montler, Jim Morris, Len St. Jean, Tom Neville, guys like that, still around."

"The Patriots have somehow always been able to beat people that others don't think they can beat because they can make the big strike. They beat Detroit 34-30 last Saturday, and that's good enough for me."

THE Vikings will move the ball from the triple option wishbone formation featuring sweeps inside slants and traps to gain ground. Quarterback Chuck Glitt has a good arm and the Vikings will go to the air as the situation necessitates.

The running game will be powered by All-Metro fullback Ken Stewart and the fleet Lambert.

roll makes no bones about his pride in winning awards and seeing his name in headlines.

He remembers those days when eating a Popsicle on Fridays was a big thrill.

The personable Cincinnati Reds reliever, one of nine children of a cotton mill worker, says he loves baseball, a fact made obvious by his labors on the mound.

It's a bonus to Carroll that the job he loves provides the money to give his wife and two children "a comfortable life."

"Nobody in the family made it big," Carroll said, recalling his childhood days while lounging in a chair at his home, a daughter propped on each long leg.

After cashing his $45 weekly paycheck, Carroll's father gave him, his brothers and sisters enough money for a Popsicle each Friday, Carroll recalled, talking in a thick Southern drawl.

Money was tight then, and Carroll couldn't afford to buy a car until he was offered $1,000 to sign with the Atlanta Braves' Waycross, Ga., farm club.

"One thousand dollars sounded like $100,000 to a guy from some place like Clanton," said Carroll, whose salary has bloomed to an estimated $50,000 yearly.

Carroll said he was so excited about the contract and money that he bought his first auto, a 1954 Ford. But he soon wrecked it, and wound up riding the train to Waycross.

"That car was my ticket to Waycross," Carroll said.

Pulling out a scrapbook of statistics and stories on his professional baseball career, Carroll smiled. "When I was a kid," he said, "I didn't even have an idea that I would be in the big leagues."

The statistics showed a 1971 record of 10-4 and a 2-49 earned run average; a lifetime mark of 54-42 and 3.14 ERA entering the season; and his 6-4 record, 2.49 ERA and 27 saves this year.

Traces of a bluish reddening his face as he displayed All-Star rings from 1971 and 1972, Carroll said, "It's just great to get awards. It's a big kick to accomplish things like making the All-Star team."

A Cincinnati Reds official described Carroll as "the type of guy who would do anything for you," and related a story explaining one of Carroll's ingredients of success—extreme desire.

When St. Louis ace Bob Gibson complained that pitching in the All-Star game this year would interfere with his starting rotation for the Cardinals, the Reds official quoted Carroll as saying, "Give me the ball. I'll go nine."

Pitchers in All-Star games usually are allowed to work a maximum of three innings.

Carroll says his love for the game and desire date back to his childhood in Georgia.

"I played ball whenever I could and wherever I could," he said.

He added that his father, who died six years ago and never saw him pitch in the majors, used "to whip me a lot when I took off to play baseball with older men. He knew I would do anything to play ball."

Although Carroll moved from Clanton in 1960, he remains strongly influenced by country life. He's a country music buff and has over 50 tapes featuring the country sound.

On Reds road trips, he sits in the back of the team plane and "drowns everyone out with music. But nobody complains."

On his return home, he said, he often can look forward to a country-style meal cooked by his attractive wife, Judy, a native of Bradenton, Fla.

"Judy fixes me ham loafs, stuffed pork chops and other country meals," said Carroll, glancing at his trim stomach and noting he's able to keep his weight between 202 and 204 pounds during the season.

But he said he watches a lot of television in the off-season and keeps dipping into fattening snacks.

During the season, he said, he's awakened about 8 a.m. by his human alarm clocks, his daughters, Connie, 4, and Lori, 3.

Flashing a big smile, Carroll said, "My family is very important to me. When I'm in town, my wife and girls and I rarely go anywhere when we're not together."

Judy said that she and the girls rarely miss going to games here and seeing him pitch.

"The kids love to be with their daddy," she said.

Carroll claims he doesn't spoil the girls, but a peek at toys piled in their room in the Carroll apartment in nearby Florence, Ky., indicates otherwise. And Carroll said the girls have plenty more toys at the family's winter home, a sprawling ranch situated near two lakes in a rural section of Bradenton.

Carroll and Don Gullett, a 21-year-old Reds pitcher from Lynn, Ky., live in the same apartment building in an area carved out of woods near Greater Cincinnati Airport, and ride to and from games together.

"We're both country - likes," Carroll said, noting he and Gullett are close friends.

"We go back and forth to the games together, we fish together when we get a chance and we play basketball together sometimes."

Carroll recalled that when Gullett was elevated to the Reds after only a few weeks in the minors, the lefthanded hurler was only 18 and wasn't old enough to sign a lease for an apartment.

"So I signed for him," Carroll said. "I was glad to help and we became great friends."

Carroll said his life on the road is a different world than that at home.

"I sleep a lot," he said.

Carroll generally stays in his hotel room, and watches late night movies on television.

"There's not much to do," he said, "and I don't feel like doing much."

But at home, "I can go fishing or play golf occasionally, or lounge around the swimming pool (at the apartment complex). After Sunday games, we—the family—often go play miniature golf or I drive golf balls at the driving range."

"I play a pretty good game of golf," Carroll boasted. He noted he carded a 91 on a rugged, hilly, par-72 course where the Reds had a recent golf outing.

Carroll says he'd like to spend part of his spare time making appearances on behalf of the team, and being in commercials.

"I think people like to see all the players," Carroll explained, pointing out that it seems only a few players on the Reds squad make most of the appearances.

"You get to meet the fans, and I like to be friendly and spend the time with people," he said.

Carroll said he did a magazine ad once for a hair spray, although he never uses the stuff.

The relief ace said he likes to keep active and play different sports to maintain his physical condition.

Grasping his muscular pitching arm, Carroll said, "I'm 31 but I don't feel it."

"I feel if I can keep myself in shape, I can play until I'm 40," he said, adding that he doesn't smoke, and drinks only lightly.

roll makes no bones about his pride in winning awards and seeing his name in headlines. He remembers those days when eating a Popsicle on Fridays was a big thrill.

The personable Cincinnati Reds reliever, one of nine children of a cotton mill worker, says he loves baseball, a fact made obvious by his labors on the mound.

It's a bonus to Carroll that the job he loves provides the money to give his wife and two children "a comfortable life."

"Nobody in the family made it big," Carroll said, recalling his childhood days while lounging in a chair at his home, a daughter propped on each long leg.

After cashing his $45 weekly paycheck, Carroll's father gave him, his brothers and sisters enough money for a Popsicle each Friday, Carroll recalled, talking in a thick Southern drawl.

Money was tight then, and Carroll couldn't afford to buy a car until he was offered $1,000 to sign with the Atlanta Braves' Waycross, Ga., farm club.

"One thousand dollars sounded like $100,000 to a guy from some place like Clanton," said Carroll, whose salary has bloomed to an estimated $50,000 yearly.

Carroll said he was so excited about the contract and money that he bought his first auto, a 1954 Ford. But he soon wrecked it, and wound up riding the train to Waycross.

"That car was my ticket to Waycross," Carroll said.

Pulling out a scrapbook of statistics and stories on his professional baseball career, Carroll smiled. "When I was a kid," he said, "I didn't even have an idea that I would be in the big leagues."

The statistics showed a 1971 record of 10-4 and a 2-49 earned run average; a lifetime mark of 54-42 and 3.14 ERA entering the season; and his 6-4 record, 2.49 ERA and 27 saves this year.

Traces of a bluish reddening his face as he displayed All-Star rings from 1971 and 1972, Carroll said, "It's just great to get awards. It's a big kick to accomplish things like making the All-Star team."

A Cincinnati Reds official described Carroll as "the type of guy who would do anything for you," and related a story explaining one of Carroll's ingredients of success—extreme desire.

When St. Louis ace Bob Gibson complained that pitching in the All-Star game this year would interfere with his starting rotation for the Cardinals, the Reds official quoted Carroll as saying, "Give me the ball. I'll go nine."

Pitchers in All-Star games usually are allowed to work a maximum of three innings.

Carroll says his love for the game and desire date back to his childhood in Georgia.

"I played ball whenever I could and wherever I could," he said.

He added that his father, who died six years ago and never saw him pitch in the majors, used "to whip me a lot when I took off to play baseball with older men. He knew I would do anything to play ball."

Although Carroll moved from Clanton in 1960, he remains strongly influenced by country life. He's a country music buff and has over 50 tapes featuring the country sound.

On Reds road trips, he sits in the back of the team plane and "drowns everyone out with music. But nobody complains."

On his return home, he said, he often can look forward to a country-style meal cooked by his attractive wife, Judy, a native of Bradenton, Fla.

"Judy fixes me ham loafs, stuffed pork chops and other country meals," said Carroll, glancing at his trim stomach and noting he's able to keep his weight between 202 and 204 pounds during the season.

But he said he watches a lot of television in the off-season and keeps dipping into fattening snacks.

During the season, he said, he's awakened about 8 a.m. by his human alarm clocks, his daughters, Connie, 4, and Lori, 3.

Flashing a big smile, Carroll said, "My family is very important to me. When I'm in town, my wife and girls and I rarely go anywhere when we're not together."

Judy said that she and the girls rarely miss going to games here and seeing him pitch.

"The kids love to be with their daddy," she said.

Carroll claims he doesn't spoil the girls, but a peek at toys piled in their room in the Carroll apartment in nearby Florence, Ky., indicates otherwise. And Carroll said the girls have plenty more toys at the family's winter home, a sprawling ranch situated near two lakes in a rural section of Bradenton.

Carroll and Don Gullett, a 21-year-old Reds pitcher from Lynn, Ky., live in the same apartment building in an area carved out of woods near Greater Cincinnati Airport, and ride to and from games together.

"We're both country-like," Carroll said, noting he and Gullett are close friends.

"We go back and forth to the games together, we fish together when we get a chance and we play basketball together sometimes."

Carroll recalled that when Gullett was elevated to the Reds after only a few weeks in the minors, the left-handed hurler was only 18 and wasn't old enough to sign a lease for an apartment.

"So I signed for him," Carroll said, "I was glad to help and we became great friends."

Carroll said his life on the road is a different world than that at home.

"I sleep a lot," he said.

Carroll generally stays in his hotel room, and watches late night movies on television.

"There's not much to do," he said, "and I don't feel like doing much."

But at home, "I can go fishing or play golf occasionally, or lounge around the swimming pool (at the apartment complex). After Sunday games, we—the family—often go play miniature golf or I drive golf balls at the driving range."

"I play a pretty good game of golf," Carroll boasted. He noted he carded a 91 on a rugged, hilly, par-72 course where the Reds had a recent golf outing.

Carroll says he'd like to spend part of his spare time making appearances on behalf of the team, and being in commercials.

"I think people like to see all the players," Carroll explained, pointing out that it seems only a few players on the Reds squad make most of the appearances.

"You get to meet the fans, and I like to be friendly and spend the time with people," he said.

Carroll said he did a magazine ad once for a hair spray, although he never uses the stuff.

The relief ace said he likes to keep active and play different sports to maintain his physical condition.

Grasping his muscular pitching arm, Carroll said, "I'm 31 but I don't feel it."

"I feel if I can keep myself in shape, I can play until I'm 40," he said, adding that he doesn't smoke, and drinks only lightly.

PUBLIC SALE

Investment Rentals and/or Inexpensive Home Property
Under the authority of the Will of Alice R. Brown, deceased, the undersigned executor will offer for sale at public auction on

September 18, 1972

Commencing at 1:30 o'clock P.M. at the front door of the Court House in Circleville, Ohio, the following real estate:

PARCEL I:
Tract 1:
Lot 45, Charles Isaac Subdivision.
390 John Street, Circleville, Ohio.
Appraised at $5500.00.
Cannot be sold for less than two-thirds of the appraised value.

Tract 2:
Lot 46, Charles Isaac Subdivision.
370 John Street, Circleville, Ohio.
Appraised at $5500.00.
Cannot be sold for less than two-thirds of the appraised value.

Tract 3:
Lot 47, Charles Isaac Subdivision.
350 John Street, Circleville, Ohio.
Appraised at $6000.00.
Cannot be sold for less than two-thirds of the appraised value.

Tract 4:
Lot 48, Charles Isaac Subdivision.
330 John Street, Circleville, Ohio.
Appraised at $5100.00.
Cannot be sold for less than two-thirds of the appraised value.

The above four tracts, formerly outside the corporate limits of Circleville have now been annexed to the City. Presently all four tracts are served by the same well and the same septic tank. Indications are that city water will be available before the end of 1972 but sewage disposal will not be available for perhaps a couple of years. These latter are indications only and must not be construed as any guarantee relative to the availability of water or sewage disposal by the undersigned executor.

The above four tracts will be offered separately and bidders together and will be sold to the highest bidder or bidders bidding not less than two-thirds of the appraised value in whichever manner they will bring the highest bid price. Said four tracts are appraised at a total of $22,100.00.

PARCEL II:
Lot 1721 in J. R. Baums First Addition to Circleville, Ohio, known as 138 York Street.
Appraised at $5700.00 and cannot be sold for less than two-thirds of the appraised value.

PARCEL III:
Lot No. 10 of the R. G. Colville Addition to Circleville, Ohio, known as 461 Watt Street.
Appraised at $4500.00 and cannot be sold for less than two-thirds of the appraised value.

PARCEL IV:
Lot No. 1173 Revised Numbering of lots of Circleville, Ohio and on the southeast corner of Scioto and Harrison Street.
Contains three houses on one lot.
Houses known as 195 Harrison Street, 902 South Scioto Street and 904 South Scioto Street.
Will be offered as one parcel.
Appraised at $7900.00 and cannot be sold for less than two-thirds of the appraised value thereof.

The above four parcels will be offered in the order of their respective parcel numbers.

For further information see Legal Advertisement published in Circleville Herald August 18, 25, Sept. 1, 8 and 15, 1972.

PUBLIC SALE

Investment Rentals and/or Inexpensive Home Property
Under the authority of the Will of Alice R. Brown, deceased, the undersigned executor will offer for sale at public auction on

September 18, 1972

Commencing at 1:30 o'clock P.M. at the front door of the Court House in Circleville, Ohio, the following real estate:

PARCEL I:

Tract 1:
Lot 45, Charles Isaac Subdivision.
390 John Street, Circleville, Ohio.
Appraised at $5500.00.
Cannot be sold for less than two-thirds of the appraised value.

Tract 2:
Lot 46, Charles Isaac Subdivision.
370 John Street, Circleville, Ohio.
Appraised at $5500.00.
Cannot be sold for less than two-thirds of the appraised value.

Tract 3:
Lot 47, Charles Isaac Subdivision.
350 John Street, Circleville, Ohio.
Appraised at $6000.00.
Cannot be sold for less than two-thirds of the appraised value.

Tract 4:
Lot 48, Charles Isaac Subdivision.
330 John Street, Circleville, Ohio.
Appraised at $5100.00.
Cannot be sold for less than two-thirds of the appraised value.

The above four tracts, formerly outside the corporate limits of Circleville have now been annexed to the City. Presently all four tracts are served by the same well and the same septic tank. Indications are that city water will be available before the end of 1972 but sewage disposal will not be available for perhaps a couple of years. These latter are indications only and must not be construed as any guarantee relative to the availability of water or sewage disposal by the undersigned executor.

The above four tracts will be offered separately and then together and will be sold to the highest bidder or bidders bidding not less than two-thirds of the appraised value in whichever manner they will bring the highest bid price. Said four tracts are appraised at a total of $22,100.00.

PARCEL II:

Lot 121 in J. R. Baums First Addition to Circleville, Ohio, known as 138 York Street.

Kiwanians Hear Art Linkletter

Art Linkletter spoke to the Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday night by tape recording.

The recording, made by the television and radio star at the Kiwanis Convention in Atlantic City, concerned his life on radio and dwelled mainly on his personal tragic events involving drugs.

Reports were given by Dick Penn concerning the progress on the new Pumpkin Show booth under construction and president elect Dave Gillespie concerning recent Division Training Council.

Bill Fischer announced that the Flea Market, scheduled this month at the Pickaway County fairgrounds, would be postponed due to prior commitments for the fairgrounds.

Final plans were made for the 1972 President's Party, scheduled Oct. 2, with the new division 10-S Lt. Gov. William Noeie of the Whitehall Club as the installing officer.

Lincoln Tower Still Not Filled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — No decision has been reached whether to close Lincoln Tower dormitory on the Ohio State University campus this fall but so far there aren't enough students to fill it, OSU Executive Vice President Edward Mouton said Wednesday.

"Various alternative means" to fill the 24-story dormitory are being explored, Mouton said.

Lincoln Tower, one of dual tower complex on the campus, has an occupancy of 1,388. If filled to capacity, it would net $617,660 in rent per quarter.

Mouton attributed the drop in dormitory occupancy to a decrease in the size of OSU's freshmen and sophomore classes. Freshmen and sophomores are required to live in dormitories if they are under 21, unmarried, and are not living with parents or "close relatives."

Pair Owes $508,635

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Canton restaurateur Tully V. Foster and his wife, Mary, have been told by U.S. Tax Court in Cleveland that they owe the government $508,635 in taxes and penalties on unreported income.

The ruling was based on an Internal Revenue Service audit for 1955 through 1959. It was determined by computing the net worth of the couple at the end of each year, including income from stock transactions, bank accounts and the restaurant.

The court opinion did not list the total income, only the liability. It listed the actual deficiency as $339,090 with an additional $169,545 as penalties. The ruling can be appealed to U.S. District Court.

Foster, 58, and his wife were sentenced to a year's probation and fined $4,000 in U.S. District Court in 1968 for evading taxes in 1960, 1961 and 1962.

The Internal Revenue Service began its audit at that time to determine exact liability.

Pair Owes $508,635

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Canton restaurateur Tully V. Foster and his wife, Mary, have been told by U.S. Tax Court in Cleveland that they owe the government $508,635 in taxes and penalties on unreported income.

The ruling was based on an Internal Revenue Service audit for 1955 through 1959. It was determined by computing the net worth of the couple at the end of each year, including income from stock transactions, bank accounts and the restaurant.

The court opinion did not list the total income, only the liability. It listed the actual deficiency as $339,090 with an additional $169,545 as penalties. The ruling can be appealed to U.S. District Court.

Foster, 58, and his wife were sentenced to a year's probation and fined $4,000 in U.S. District Court in 1968 for evading taxes in 1960, 1961 and 1962.

The Internal Revenue Service began its audit at that time to determine exact liability.
